Hail to Ouafi, the Arab.
How's Your Neokinesis?
Absit Omen Alias Unberufen.
California's Summer.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

EL OUAFI, Algerian Arab, won the Olympic Marathon yesterday, carrying the colors of France, outrunning all the proud fair-haired Nordics, including the "Ironmen" from the North.

Plaza, from Chili, a Latin, was second. Two Japanese were among the first half-dozen to finish the long, hard race.

The original Marathon runner that dropped dead would probably have been nowhere in yesterday's race. On the other hand, he will be remembered when Ouafi, Nurmi and Ray are forgotten.

Dr. Tilney, professor of neurology at Columbia, says things to annoy a Fundamentalist.

Your thinking power, you may not know it, is just plain "neokinesis." You develop that while other animals squander it, whales and seals in the sea, horses racing around. Bats, that like the whales and ourselves are mammals, wasted their neokinesis flying in the air.

Luckily your ancestors were tree-climbing mammals. Holding to branches, their paws changed to claw-like hands and their activity stimulated the brain to thought. Neokinesis had a chance to develop among the peaceful tree branches.

The hands, making signs, led to speech, and there you are. All that we are we owe to neokinesis, properly applied.

Prof. Tilney's books on the brain will give you much encouragement. We have hardly started our brain development. You can buy now Dr. Tilney's book, "The Brain from Ape to Man." Two other books on the brain will appear later, Dr. Tilney does not say who invented neokinesis. That is the puzzle. As the little boy said when he was spanked, "who started this idea?"

Thirty-two million francs Uncle Sam paid for land on the Place de La Concorde in Paris. There he will build a modern palace, with nice big columns, to house the American Ambassador.

The site purchased is only a few feet from the spot where the French cut off the heads of Louis the Sixteenth, Marie Antoinette and others.

Absit omen or "unberufen," as the Germans say. When you see a Republic imitating royal foolishness you remember Prudhomme's wise saying:

"Monarchies are destroyed by poverty, Republics by wealth."

It will interest the country to know that heat killed 14 in and around New York yesterday and others the day before.

California would like the world to know that the state is primarily a summer resort.

It is, of course, marvelous in winter. But to know California at its best go there now.

For a really cool climate, go to San Francisco. To enlarge your knowledge of this country, and your admiration for it, go to Seattle.

A Russian flier hunting for the lost Italians, marooned on the ice without food, killed a polar bear and lived on him. That is the kind of Russian aviator Bashkirin is. Once he was a laborer. Under the Czar's rule he would have died a laborer. Now at forty he is a flier and a good one. Perhaps Bolshevism really does give workmen a chance.

When Commander Byrd goes to the South Pole, establishing his base in Whale Bay, 800 miles north of the Pole, at the far end of New Zealand, he will have no food trouble.

In the Antarctic wastes are no bears, nothing to frighten seals that abound and are fearless.

'L' TRUSTEES 'ON CARPET'

IN 'SESSION' WITH GOV. FULLER

Samuel L. Powers, chairman of the Boston Elevated board of trustees, and Edward E. Whiting, Governor Fuller's own appointee to the board, were "on the carpet" before the Governor at the State House today in connection with the fatal wreck at Beach st. and Harrison ave.

With them at a session that lasted more than a half-hour was Louis Goldberg of the Public Utilities Commission, asked by the Governor to make suggestions to the Elevated "as to the conduct of their business" following disclosure of a long record against Bernard McDonald, motorman of the wrecked train.

Neither of the three interviewed by the Governor would make a statement before the conference took place and the attitude of the Elevated trustees gave the impression that their reply to the Governor's letter condemning conditions in the service was not yet ready.

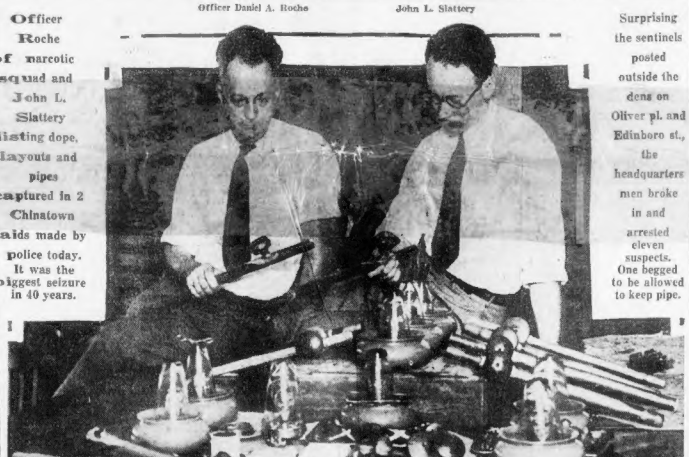
Before the meeting Governor Fuller characterized as "news to me" the report that Homer Loring, "reorganization doctor" of the Boston & Maine Railroad and of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, would head a new board of trustees.

The Governor said he wanted it understood that the investigation of the Elevated wreck and the appointment of new trustees—a duty now incumbent on him—were two separate matters.

Pressed regarding Loring's candidacy for the trusteeship, the Governor said he did not imply that Loring's name was barred from consideration.

Captured in Biggest Hub Opium Raids

Officer Daniel A. Roche — John L. Slattery



Officer Roche of narcotic squad and John L. Slattery listing dope, layouts and pipes captured in 2 Chinatown raids made by police today. It was the biggest seizure in 40 years.

Surprising the sentinels posted outside the dens on Oliver pl. and Edinboro st., the headquarters men broke in and arrested eleven suspects. One begged to be allowed to keep pipe.

NAB DRUGS, LAYOUTS AND 11 SUSPECTS AT 2 CHINATOWN RAIDS

The biggest and most complete opium "layouts" ever seized in Boston were gathered in by police today in two simultaneous raids in Chinatown in which 11 men were arrested.

According to Capt. George W. Patterson, head of the narcotic and liquor division of police headquarters, the opium paraphernalia was the most complete he has seen in 40 years' experience.

Seven members of the narcotics squad descended on Chinatown, split into two groups and made quick clean-ups of the two places, one on Oliver pl. and the other on Edinboro st., accomplishing their work easily by stealthily surprising and silencing the lookouts.

Nine lamps for "cooking," a large assortment of pipes, many pill-rollers, other equipment and considerable opium was found in the two places, the size of the seizure surprising even the raiders.

Special Officers Garrett, Fortin, Daley and Welty swooped into the Oliver pl. rendezvous where two men were arrested, while Special Officers Clark, Breen and Doyle collared nine in the other place.

One Chinese begged for the return of his favorite pipe, according to the officers, who had difficulty convincing him that everything without exception would be kept by the authorities. Whatever he called it in his own tongue, he pleaded for its return as a family heirloom, the raiders said.

Those arrested were held for court arraignment on charges of being present where narcotics were being sold and used.

FULLER STARTS MOVE TO END MILL STRIKE

As a final effort to settle the New Bedford cotton mill strike, involving 27,000 operatives and 56 plants, a suggestion by Governor Fuller for a special board of arbitration will be submitted to both factions.

This announcement was made today at the State House by Chairman Edward Fisher of the State board of conciliation and arbitration, whose proposals for an arbitration agreement were rejected by both sides.

This board begins an investigation on Wednesday to publicly "fix the responsibility," which it is empowered to do by law, arbitration plans having failed, but the final attempt to effect a settlement will be made before that day.

"The Governor, who previously threw out a suggestion that he was willing to help appoint a special arbitration committee, now proposes a commission of three, to arbitrate," said Chairman Fisher.

"Such a body would consist of one man named by each side and a neutral appointed by the Governor. He hopes that something can be done before the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration finds it necessary to step in and fix responsibility, as we plan to do beginning on Wednesday, as a last resort.

"Accordingly, before our inquiry begins, this board will confer with leaders of both sides to see if something cannot be done."

The investigation, if it does begin as scheduled, will be conducted in the New Bedford Municipal Building and will be open to the public. The board will hear all who wish to appear before it and the New Bedford

POLISH FLIER INJURED IN FALL AFTER RESCUE

Paris, Aug. 6 (INS)—The Polish embassy today issued this statement: "Polish aviators will attempt another transatlantic flight. It is believed the government will sanction such a flight as soon as an investigation can be made into the trouble which caused Idzikowski and Rutale to land."

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 6 (AP) — Maj. Casimir Kubala said today that a broken pipe line forced him and his companion, Maj. Louis Idzikowski, to turn back after they had flown 21 of the 42 hours which they estimated it would take them to fly from Paris to New York.

The airmen were rescued when found swimming in the sea near the wreckage of their plane the Marszalek Pilsudski, by the German steamer Samos Saturday and brought to Lexicoes, near Oporto. On board the ship Kubala slipped and fell cutting his right forearm on broken glass.

Kubala, interviewed in the Oporto Military Hospital, said that after they had flown 21 hours the tube feeding the oil stopped working. The airmen thought it would be impossible to continue their flight to America and decided to return.

When they were 70 miles off Cape Finisterre, westernmost point of Spain, they noticed additional damage. This caused the wings to collapse and the heavy seaplane plunged into the sea near the Samos. The wings broke and the

MOLLOY LEADS HEARST GOLF FIELD WITH 84

Blue Hill Country Club, Aug. 6—Charles A. Molloy of Brookline, playing brilliant golf for a young stier, got off to a fine start for the Hearst Junior Golf tournament by shooting an 84 at the Blue Hill Country Club, today.

Molloy went out in 44 and came back in 40 to lead more than fifty competitors who finished the first 18 holes. The scores of the other boys ranged from 85 to 120.

Never before in the history of junior golf in the East has such enthusiasm been shown as in the Hearst tournament. In every means of conveyance the boys arrived at the Blue Hill Club long before the time for the first tee off.

Some took the bus, provided by the Boston American, from Mattapan sq. Others walked in from nearby towns. One party swelled the sides of a battered Ford of the "collegiate" type while still a few more pedaled their way to the course on bicycles.

Some of the boys dressed in sporty knickers and with expensive golf

MARTHA NORELIUS WINS; SETS RECORD

Amsterdam, Aug. 6 (AP)—Martha Norelius of New York brought the United States its first swimming championship of the Olympic games by winning the 400-meter free style for women today.

Behind Miss Norelius in second place came Miss Braun of Holland, while the youthful American, Josephine McKim of Homestead, Pa., was third. Miss Norelius' time was not immediately announced as officials went into a huddle, but it was said to break both the world's and the Olympic records.

Miss Norelius led from the start. At 200 metres Miss McKim was second, but she was unable to hold her advantage against the powerful bid of the Dutch girl.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD.

After the parley Miss Norelius' time was announced as 5 minutes 42 4-5 seconds, a new world's record and new Olympic standard as well.

It was several seconds faster than the record-shattering time she made last week in her first preliminary heat.

By her victory Miss Norelius successfully defended her Olympic

'LOVE' MURDER VICTIM KILLED WITH BOTTLE

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (AP)—Solution of another violent murder case faced the police today in the slaying of Mrs. Myrtle L. Mellus, 41, wealthy and socially prominent.

Her nude and battered body was found in a bedroom of the Mellus home, in a fashionable residence district. Leo (Pat) Kelly, 29, a suspect, was found grovelling in a clothes closet on the first floor. He denied killing the woman, although he said he gave her a "terrible beating," police said.

Discovery of the crime was reported by her husband, Frank Mellus, club man, and vice-president of a wholesale concern, on his return home from a day's fishing trip. The house was locked and he forced a door to gain entrance.

plane was damaged, making further progress impossible.

"We threw ourselves into the sea," said Kubala. "We swam toward the flames whose crew rescued us and then took the plane in tow. We were altogether 38 hours in the air."

The airmen plan to leave for Paris with their plane on Wednesday.

DROPPED MESSAGE

The aviators were in serious straits when, as they flew toward Cape Finisterre, they saw the flames.

The airmen turned toward the ship and circling over it dropped a message in a small tube weighted with pebbles on its deck. The message asked the ship to stand by to pick them up.

The fliers did not wait to inflate their collapsible rubber boat—the only safety device they carried, before they jumped overboard.

The wrecked plane, which was valued at a million francs was towed to Lezioe by the ship. It was found to be so seriously damaged that it was thought it would be almost useless.

LIKE COURTNEY'S FLIGHT

The rescue of the Poles was the second within three days of fliers trying to span the Atlantic from east to west. Capt. Frank T. Courtney and three companions were picked up by the steamship Minnewaska on Thursday after being adrift ten hours. Courtney had hopped off from the Azores for Newfoundland. Like the Polish plane, trouble had developed with his fuel supply system. A broken gas line had sprayed fuel against the hot motor and fire forced a rapid descent.

The Courtney party and the Polish fliers are the only ones who have been rescued after failing to reach land on an east-to-west flight across the Atlantic.

Last year Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, the first to try the Paris-to-New York flight, disappeared after leaving France.

Soon afterward the Princess Lowenstein Wertheim and two companions hopped off from England for America and were swallowed up by the Atlantic.

In March this year the Hon. Elsie Mackay and Capt. Walter Hinchcliffe perished in an attempt to fly from England to the United States.

Courtney to Reach N. Y. Today; Official Welcome

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British aviator, and his three flight companions were nearing New York today aboard the Atlantic transport liner Minnewaska, which rescued them in mid-ocean after their disabled seaplane, "The Whale," had been forced down in an attempted flight from the Azores to Newfoundland.

The Minnewaska is due to arrive at quarantine at 3:30 p. m.

Grover Whalen, chairman of the mayor's committee on receptions, and a group will go down the bay on the tug Macom to meet the Minnewaska at quarantine and take the fliers aboard. An official welcome at City Hall is planned.

FIVE SAVED BY COAST GUARD IN HARBOR

Marooned on the eastern end of Thompson's island after their motorboat had been driven ashore at the height of the storm, two men, five women and a small boy were rescued by members of the Strandway station, U. S. Coast Guard early today.

This was one of the many rescues following in the wake of the storm which swept the coast.

A light flashing through the murky haze which hung over the harbor in the early morning hours first attracted the attention of a surfman on watch at the coast guard station.

Surfmen Charles W. Lenk and George L. Martin put out in a speed boat and found the occupants in an exhausted condition. One of the women in the party was hysterical, but was revived at the coast guard station before she was taken to her home.

The party had left Bunker Hill Yacht Club, Charlestown, early in the day as the guests of Thomas F. O'Malley of 2 Fremont pl, Charlestown.

Sixteen Boston men in the powerboat Miss Swampscott were rescued by the Nahant Coast Guard after a giant comber flooded the launch and put the engine out of commission during the height of the storm.

At Gloucester, the schooner yacht Catherine, which had just taken logged rocks to the breakwater was also crushing against the jagged rocks to the breakwater, when the storm broke and the boat's anchor dragged. There were nine men and four women aboard the yacht, including the owner, C. T. Shepherd of Marblehead.

The Dolliver's Neck Coast Guard station saw the predicament of the yacht and the crew launched a lifeboat which reached the yacht and took off the owner and his guests.

Two motorboats were disabled in the storm off Scituate and the four men and two women in the boats were rescued by the destroyer Jacket of the dry fleet. The Jacket was proceeding to her position off Boston Light when the radios were made and later a 75 foot chaser was sent out to the destroyer to return the rescued party to Boston.

But his parachute failed to open 2000 feet in the air and Heppenstall fell, a mangled mass, three blocks from the crowd that came to see him cut loose from one parachute to descend in a second.

When the first parachute opened the jerk apparently broke the rope connecting with the second to which Heppenstall was hanging and disabled the smaller one.

POINTS GUN AT BOY BATHERS

Brockton, Aug. 6—Local and State police are searching for a half-dozen men, wearing a gray suit, who threatened two youngsters with a shotgun while they were bathing in the waters of the Montella Ice Co. pond near Cary Hill.

The boys, Adam and Bronislaw Geowsky of 259 Ames st., were so badly frightened by the man when he pointed the shotgun at them that they fled from the pond naked and ran to their home, where they were later found by their parents, hiding in terror in the cellar.

The boys' story was reported to the police, who found the clothing of the boys along the banks of the pond. The wooded section about Cary Hill, which is sparsely settled, is being combed for the stranger.

The superintendent informed the man he intended to keep other liquor sellers in the district and put them all out of business.

At 2476 Washington st., near here and these were being dispensed to a few customers, but nothing stronger was visible. A Dudley st. drug store, which usually keeps its front door scrupulously closed, today had it flung wide open so that the passerby might see that only a legitimate business was being done.

The superintendent expressed himself as being much pleased with conditions and said he believes there will be little liquor selling in the district hereafter.

BAN PLANES FOR OVER OCEAN FLIGHTS

New York, Aug. 6 (INS)—Capt. Anton Heinen, famous German dirigible engineer who built the Shenandoah, upon landing here today from the North German liner Karlsruhe, vigorously condemned the use of airplanes for transatlantic flights.

"They are comparable to men walking tight ropes with wheelbarrows," he declared.

"It is possible for a skillful tight rope walker to go this stunt and push ahead of him on his barrow a small quantity of baggage, but only a few do it, and after they have developed a reasonable amount of skill to be considered as handling baggage?

"The public stands and watches for no other reason than to bet against the tight rope walker that he can't make it. The whole thing is a matter of stunts.

"The whole history of the airplane flights has demonstrated their impracticability.

Turning to his own specialty, the Zeppelin, Heinen spoke enthusiastically on the new giant "Graf Zeppelin" which is scheduled to leave Germany for a flight here before the end of the month.

"She is a wonderful ship," he said, "there is no question about her ever being able to make the voyage across the Atlantic and to proceed on around the world. I can say the same for the new British dirigible."

Bigger dirigibles will have to be built before they can be a commercial success, Heinen added.

The plan calls for the cutting of three ship canals 60 feet deep and 200 feet wide from the Mediterranean sea to three dry saline lake beds called shotts. It was estimated some 10,000 square miles would be flooded from Gaves westward and climatic conditions altered by increasing rainfall.

The canals would also afford a water route of about 250 miles for seagoing ships deep into Algeria.

KILLS WOMAN WITH BOTTLE

The body appeared to have been stripped during a terrific struggle preceding the death blow, which apparently was delivered by a beer bottle. The room showed effects of this fight for life, while Mrs. Mellus' face was badly bruised and her body mutilated.

Robbery was discarded as a motive when a jewel case, containing jewels the husband valued at $10,000, was found undisturbed.

Police believed the woman had been dead an hour when the body was discovered.

Poli o at first thought Kelly a maniac, but discarded that theory when it was learned through his mother that he had been friendly with Mrs. Mellus, and that his mother had warned him this friendship might lead to trouble.

Under grilling Kelly told the officers "she is the only woman I ever loved." He said he had gone to the home after taking several drinks.

"We had a fight," he continued, "and I gave her a terrible beating. I did not kill her, though. I fell asleep then. I know I didn't kill her."

Kelly declared he had known the slain woman for five years. Police found empty glasses and liquor in the house.

When faced by the woman's husband Kelly lunged at him and shouted "Take these handcuffs off me. I'll kill him, too." En route to police headquarters, he attempted to leap from the police car several times.

Mellus and other relatives told police they never had heard of Kelly.

A negro maid told the police she prepared breakfast for Kelly and Mrs. Mellus and that the two were alone in the house when she left soon afterward, after being given the day off by her mistress.

"Go on—kill me—put a bullet in my head," Kelly cried when found, the police related.

HELEN MORGAN FACES ARREST IN CLUB CASE

BOY OF 8 GIVES HIS POLICE DAD A JOB

Eight-year-old "Johnnie" Hart of 20 Fincher st., Roslindale, today stood overjoyed at the efficiency of the Boston police and on may follow in the footsteps of his father and become a "cop" when he grows up.

Ever since he was old enough to understand such things, "Johnnie" has listened to his father, Patrolman Henry E. Hart of Sta. 22, explaining how the police found hundreds of lost and runaway children, avoiding them to anxious parents.

To "Johnnie" it seemed that "most of 'em just hunk." Some day, he decided, he'd give his father and the rest of the cops a good hunt and see what they could do.

So last Thursday evening, when Patrolman Hart arrived home for the evening meal "Johnnie" was missing. Until after dark he hunted the neighborhood alone, then the son of a Boston policeman was added to the list carried at the police bureau of missing persons and the wheels of the department machinery, of which "Johnnie" had been a token, began to move.

Friday and Saturday passed and Johnnie's hunting out and in hiding in different places in Roslindale, succeeding in eluding the search. But twice the lad was reported as being seen in Roslindale sq.

Yesterday morning Capt. James Smith and Patrolman Hurd fell in a store awaiting the boy's reappearance.

Sure enough, "Johnnie" came nonchalantly strolling along carrying a part of baseball over under his arm for if the police turned out to be so good he was planning to be a "Babe" Ruth.

"You're Patrolman Hart's boy, aren't you?" Capt. Smith asked.

"Sure," said "Johnnie"; "it's about time you found me."

To his father, "Johnnie" confided that a cop was pretty good, at that, and he'd probably take a hand at it later on.

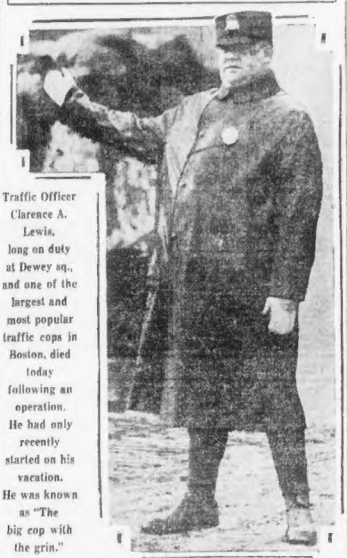
GIANT O' THE FORCE DIES



Traffic Officer Clarence A. Lewis, long on duty at Dewey sq., and one of the largest and most popular traffic cops in Boston, died today following an operation. He had only recently started on his vacation. He was known as "The big cop with the grin."

Traffic Officer Clarence A. Lewis, probably the best known traffic "cop" in Boston, died today at Harley Hospital, Dorchester, following an operation.

Lewis, six feet two inches in his stocking feet and weighing 250 pounds, presided over Dewey sq. traffic for eight of the nine years he was a member of the force.

Thousands of autoists and commuters using the South Station were on speaking terms with him, although they may not have known his name. He was known as the "big traffic cop with the grin in Dewey sq." but his grin belied his nature insofar as crooks were concerned, for he had an enviable record in the department.

Lewis started on his vacation Thursday and on Friday was taken from his home at 23 Sheplon st., Dorchester, to the hospital. The operation was successful, but the heat waxe resulted in a relapse yesterday and his death came early today. He was 39 years old and the son of George H. Lewis, a retired Boston patrolman.

SMITH'S AUTO NEAR CRASH ON ALBANY TRIP

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 6 (INS)—Governor Al Smith arrived at the executive mansion early today after an absence of nine days. He plans to settle down to work at once on the final draft of the speech he will deliver on the steps of the state capitol the night of August 22, when he formally accepts the Democratic nomination.

In a heavy rain and electrical storm the Governor motored during the night from the Lord Grand camp at Peekskill. While crossing the Bear mountain bridge his car stopped behind a truck with a machine operated by a woman.

Several times the Governor's car was forced to stop because other machines had skidded into the ditch. This prompted the Governor to caution his chauffeur to take it easy.

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, who has charge of publicity for the Democratic National Committee and has long been a close adviser of the Governor, returned to Albany with the Smith party. It is understood she will assist in whipping the acceptance speech into final form.

During the latter part of this week the Governor expects to confer with U. S. Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who roughly came in for farm leaders from the Middle West.

Missouri Vote Tomorrow Hinges on Wet-Dry Issue

St. Louis, Aug. 6 (AP)—Ending a primary campaign in which the wet and dry issue has overshadowed other questions, Republican and Democratic voters of Missouri will balce tomorrow on candidates for one national and a number of major state nominations.

The wet and dry question was injected by Senator James A. Reed in attacking Charles M. Hay, St. Louis attorney and candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, in the grounds that the latter is dry and out of harmony with the Smith-Robinson national ticket. This was followed by the entrance of James A. Collet, an out and out wet, into the race against Hay.

In the Republican race Senator George H. Porter, of Kansas City, and W. O. Atkeson, of Butler, are running as dry. Nathan Frank, St. Louis corporate lawyer; Bernard P. Bory, of St. Louis, and Henry A. Rundschot, of Kansas City, have come out for modification of the prohibition laws. Roscoe C. Patterson, United States district attorney at Kansas City, has come out against "nullification" of the dry laws.

In the gubernatorial race Lieut Gov. Phil A. Bennett, Republican, has made his campaign on a dry platform. Henry S. Caulfield, William R. Schneider, Frank H. Wheland and Sam D. Nedgdon of St. Louis county are opposed to the dry laws.

In the Democratic gubernatorial race, State Senator A. L. McCawley, author of Missouri's drastic dry law, is pitted against Ernest M. Wilson of Platte City.

Others expected to confer with Smith are Cordell Hull of Tennessee, Senator George of Georgia, Evalo Woolley of Indiana, and Allen Fomerene of Ohio.

HOOVER GOING TO MOUNTAINS FOR 3 DAYS

Stanford University, Cal., Aug. 6 (AP)—Herbert Hoover gave his attention today to the larger questions of campaign policy which will come up at conferences at his home here with party leaders immediately before and after the notification ceremonies at Stanford University next Saturday.

The Republican Presidential nominee had only one engagement today, that with Dwight Davis, Secretary of war, who is here en route to Honolulu on official business.

Hoover's engagement slate for tomorrow was clear because of his projected trip into the Sierras of California.

The objective the candidate has in mind is Tuolumne Meadows, above the Yosemite Valley. A visit there would necessitate his absence from Stanford for the better part of three days.

Chairman Work of the Republican national committee is to arrive here next Friday and remain until August 12. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee, will arrive Thursday, but the vanguard of national committeemen and committeewomen will reach Palo Alto even before that time.

Hoover has in mind now to make an extended journey over the country during the campaign, and if he has his way he will leave Washington early in June or four times during short trips to the East and some of the border states. He will make a visit to the turbulent corn belt on his way back to the national capital on August 2, marking off his birthplace at West Branch, Ia.

G. O. P. Drops Tammany Issue in Eastern Campaign

New York, Aug. 6—The Republican campaign in the vital Atlantic seaboard states, including Massachusetts and New York, will carry the battle to the enemy from the outset, it was determined by regional managers today, as the huge Eastern headquarters were formally opened here.

Instead of waging a fight on Tammany, the Republicans will base their efforts upon the "gross extravagance" of the Coolidge administration, the tariff and Herbert Hoover's record.

"The Republican forces must take the defensive in the East," said William A. Hall, New York manager for Hoover.

U. S. Banker to Remake Nova Scotia Home Town

Cleveland, Aug. 6 (AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland banker, utilities operator and more recently a prominent figure in the steel industry, intends to remake his home town in Nova Scotia.

Eaton was born in 1883 at Pugwash, a quiet little fishing village of 250 persons in Loggleboo's Evangelio country. He came to Cleveland at the age of 17, and built up a fortune in banking and public utilities. He had a hand in consummating the merger of the Republic Iron & Steel Company and the Trumbull Steel Company, making it one of the largest steel concerns in the country.

A short time ago Eaton went back to Pugwash for a visit, and began to lay plans to improve the town.

He sent a letter to Pugwash, proposing to pay for the cost of making the village more attractive, especially to tourists, and asked for estimates of what was wanted. He suggested straightening out the main street, laying out a quiet little park and the building of the town's first hotel.

THIS NEW SANDWICH LOAF HAS A PLACE IN EVERY PICNIC BASKET

HERE'S A NEW WAY TO MAKE DELICIOUS SANDWICHES IN JIG TIME.

Pot Roast De Luxe

NO matter how hot the weather, there comes the day when we subject for a good, hearty meal. Next time this feeling overtakes you, try this delicious pot roast.

Select a suitable cut of meat for a pot roast and spread it with a liberal layer of prepared mustard, allowing a tablespoonful of mustard to each pound of meat.

Melt a small piece of suet in a heavy frying pan, add one or two sliced onions and sear the meat in it on both sides over a hot fire. Add a pint of boiling water and salt and pepper to taste and stir until brown.

Put the roast in a heavy-covered kettle in a moderate oven. Pour on the water from the frying pan. Bake slowly for three hours or until meat is done. Then add parboiled carrots and onions, sliced potatoes and beans, peas or other vegetables in season, again season and cook another hour or until the vegetables are done.

Thicken the gravy if any be necessary to add more water from time to time with flour and add a tablespoon of the seasoned mustard. You will be surprised and delighted with this rich, tasty dish.

It is delicious sliced cold, too.

Iron That Thinks

HERE are two women of us and I will soon be selecting a new electric iron. It will pay you to choose one that has a thermostat, don't you?

Having this convenient device on your iron is always at the right pressing temperature, because it will not, never to cool. It heats up promptly, meaning a shorter time to use it and always ready for use. It also gets on hot before it turns over the seams, thereby removing the annoyance of having your pressing cloth scorch.

The thermostat is never too cool either, because before it cools too much it turns the heat on again. This iron is absolutely safe for it cannot overheat no matter how long you go on ironing and forget it.

It is one of life, too, for it cannot burn out, as it always at the right temperature, because it will not, never to cool. It heats up promptly, meaning a shorter time to use it and always ready for use. It also gets on hot before it turns over the seams, thereby removing the annoyance of having your pressing cloth scorch

All-American End Dies Like a Hero

San Diego, Aug. 6—Max Houser, 28, all-American end of the 1924-25 Notre Dame football team, died as he lived—a hero.

Houser, unable to swim a stroke, had gone gallantly and unhesitatingly to his death in an effort to rescue his sweetheart, Virginia Moynahan, from drowning.

The tragedy occurred at Mission Beach, where Houser and his fiancee, together with four friends, had gone for an outing.

They were playing handball in the water when a great comber suddenly caught them and hurled them below the waves.

Miss Moynahan was rescued by lifeguards after a terrific struggle. She was unconscious.

MISS NORELIUS SETS NEW SWIM MARK

swimming championship at the distance, which she won at Paris in 1924. Her time today was 1:24.5 seconds faster than she made in winning the crown at Paris.

It beats the accepted world record of 58.6 set in 1922 at Honolulu by Gertrude Ederle, and also is better than the mark of 58.2-5 which Miss Norelius herself made at Coral Gables, Fla., in 1927, and on which she has applied for world's record recognition.

The blonde New York girl leaped away with the lead from the start and was never in danger of losing it thereafter. She led by three metres at 100 metres and by five metres at 200, which she negotiated in the fast time of 2 minutes 9-2/5 seconds, which also is a world's record for the intermediate distance.

THRILLING DUEL.

Miss McKim and Miss Braun had a thrilling duel for 250 metres, but the more powerful Dutch lass drew away from the slim Princeton schoolgirl in the last 50 metres in a tremendously powerful spurt. Miss Stewart of British was fourth; Miss Vandergoes of South Africa fifth and Vera Tanner of British sixth. Miss McKim's time was six minutes and one-fifth second.

Arne Borg, the Swedish Hurricane," won the Olympic 1500-meter free style swimming championship.

The Olympic record for the 200 meters breaststroke event, held by the United States at 3 minutes and 9 seconds, was shattered twice today in the course of the elimination heats.

Andrew Charlton of Australia, winner of this championship four years ago at Paris with Borg as runnerup, was second, and Clarence Crabbe, American from Honolulu, third. Ray Ruddy, youthful member of the United States team, was fourth; Albert Zorilla of Argentina, fifth, and Garnet Ault of Canada, sixth.

Borg virtually won his race in the first few strokes, getting a lead which he was able to hold even against a counter attack by Charlton to cut him down from behind in the last half of the race. Starting at tremendous speed, the Swedish crack was leading the field by eight meters, after the first 100 meters where he was clocked at 1 minute, 3 seconds. He maintained almost this speed for the first 500 meters, being timed at 2:18 after 300 and 3:37 after three hundred.

RACE FOR SECOND

Meanwhile, Crabbe and Charlton were having the race for second place all to themselves, the other three being already distanced at 50m meters. At this stage of the race Borg had the longest lead he enjoyed at any time, Charlton not losing another inch and gaining steadily throughout the last 1000 meters.

Borg's time of 19:51 1-5 not only beat the Olympic record set by Charlton in winning the championship in 1924 in 20:06 2-5, but also bed his own world's record of 20:04 3-5 made in Budapest in 1926 and accepted by the International Amateur Swimming Federation. This is the first time on record that a swimmer has broken 20 minutes for 1500 meters.

Eric Rademacher of Delaware, swimming the distance in 2 minutes and 42 seconds in the third heat, was Olympic record holder for only a few minutes as Tsuruta of Japan turned in 2 minutes 39 seconds flat in the fourth heat. The world's record is 2 minutes 48 seconds flat and is held by Rademacher.

Thomas Blankenberg of Oakland, Cal., was the only American competing and finished second to Rademacher. His time was 2 minutes, 4 seconds. Those who also qualified for the semi-finals were Walter Spence of Canada, Rademacher and Pietus of Germany, Harling, Swedish; Schuler, Austria; Wyss, Switzerland; Taguria, Japan, and Idlesfonso of the Philippines.

Pete Des Jardines of the United States made a splendid showing in the first preliminary series of the diving event and his high and fancy diving brought exclamations of admiration from the thousands surrounding the swimming pool. Interest having shifted to swimming now that the Olympic track and field events have ended and the huge stadium is empty.

The sun, which had been sulking throughout the week of track and field events, came out brilliantly today.

In a rough and tumble water polo game, requiring two extra periods during which players on both sides attempted to sink one another without leaving any trace, Germany defeated Belgium five to three. At one time the teams were playing only four men to the side because of a record number of penalties imposed. Germany was the first nation to reach the semi-finals.

In the one meter springboard diving event Des Jardines qualified for Wednesday afternoon's final with 182 points. Pismans of Germany was second with 148 points while Alfred Phillips of Canada was third with 134 points.

In the second series of the springboard diving elimination Galitzen of the United States and Sinaika of Egypt had a spirited contest keeping the crowd in good humor until the men's finals in the meter event and the women's 400-meter event scheduled for later in the day.

Wright Beats Bernasconi in Olympic Scull Racing

Sloter, Holland, Aug. 6 (AP)—Joe Wright of Canada beat Bernasconi of Italy this morning in the Olympic single scull racing, the Italian losing out when he bested 12 at the 1250-metre mark. Wright paddled home in 7 minutes 49 2-5 seconds.

The American double scull crew of Charles McIlvaine and Paul V. Costello defeated the Austrian crew of Lose.t and Flessel in the second elimination round of the Olympic rowing events today.

The American time, which set a new course record, was 6 minutes 48 2-5 seconds, while the Austrian time was 6 minutes 55 3-5 seconds.

Question Mark First in Chatham Race

Chatham, Aug. 6—Frank Myers' Question Mark, which only a week ago won the grand free-for-all 10-mile race in the Hull Bay speedboat races, virtually made a clean sweep of the honors in the New England Outboard Motorboat Association's regatta, under the auspices of the Chatham Powerboat Association.

The Hudson was a mile and a half ahead when the finish line was reached. Myers won the class C free-for-all in 4 minutes 40 seconds, the class C novice in 4 minutes 57 seconds and the one-mile Runabout in 1 minute, 41½ seconds.

Braves Game Off; 2 Games Tomorrow

By NICK FLATLEY.

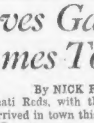
THE Cincinnati Reds, with their pennant ambitions almost ruined, arrived in town this morning to open a four-game series with the Braves.

The Cuneys have been right up in the fighting for the past two months, but lately have sagged a bit.

They must clean up this Wigwam engagement to remain seriously in the National league race.

These same Reds have been fighting brilliantly all season long. They stepped off to a bad start, but after the poor opening, found a lot of stuff, and have been there or thereabouts ever since.

But their last two weeks have been tough. They lost tight ball games to the Giants and the Dodgers. They slipped where they were supposed to shine. Now they're all set to give the Braves a chelsea licking. That's the way they think, at least.



Nick Flatley

The Braves will probably say otherwise. The Hornsby club is playing good baseball for a change. Their double effort Saturday, against the league leading Cards was something to chirp about. The Tribal team is playing hard baseball, and getting good pitching. So the invaders, whoever they may be, have lost all notions of soft pickins at the big ball yard.

THE visiting Reds might have been right up with the Cards had they used a little judgment at the beginning of things. They didn't. Letting Pete Donahue trail along as a holdout until the campaign was well under way.

Pete was gamer than the club and finally signed at his own figures. But his absence from the training camp and the early firing line just about cost the club a real pennant shot.

Pete is one of the best pitchers in captivity and was peeved because some of the veterans were collecting more than he was supposed to get. The vets fell down while Donahue was waiting for a salary verdict, so if they lose out they have nobody to blame but themselves. Meaning, of course, the club owners.

MANAGER HORNSBY probably will not play with the Tribe tomorrow afternoon. His wounded knee is still sore. But he will be around in uniform, ready to pinch hit if the occasion arises. Trainer Jimmy Conzelman says the bad prop doesn't mean anything.

Rogers is the league's best hitter, and had he been around Saturday his peculiar club would have won two ball games. Against the real contenders the Braves look like champs. They won two out of three from Chicago, incidentally wrecking that club's chances.

The Pirates had the best of things here, but they should have been licked, and the same goes for the Cards, who departed with three out of four chalked up.

Three of the Hornsby pitchers—Brandt, Delaney and Bob Smith—are set to win ball games, and the natural slugging strength of the outfit will do them no harm.

THIS series comprises four ball games, with the double-header scheduled for Wednesday. It should be an interesting clash, because the Boston fans are strong for the Reds, and have, incidentally, become attached to the Tribe in the last week or so. The stars the warriors waged against the western contenders made the born believe that the native club had comrades, if nothing else.

The Braves go away Wednesday night, to start their final western swing, while the Sox come home for three games with the Yankees. The Carrigans have suffered on a rough road trip, but figure to battle the champs and make up at home for the disasters along the trails.

A car needs a home. Have you a garage for rent? Tell about it and give location in the Want Ad. Ads. That's the way to sell it.

PEPPED UP SOX PLAY ST. LOUIS TODAY

St. Louis, August 6—Bill Carrigan's fighting Red Sox play the Browns here today. The Boston team has taken a new lease on life, and expects to start up again the race.

Charley Ruffing was the hero of the Boston win. He allowed eight hits, but kept them so well scattered that there was no chance for the Browns to cop the contest.

And the husky Charlie's single in the eighth stanza started the rally that resulted in his crossing the plate shortly after.

Ken Williams is playing great ball at present. He's hitting the ball on the nose, and is spearing long hit flies with amazing ease and confidence.

The entire club is pepped up now. Probably the prospect of going home to their native crags and peaks has helped.

The play here again tomorrow, rest Wednesday, and then open a long home stay with a title of pennants here, but they should have been licked, and the same goes for the Cards, who departed with three out of four chalked up.

Three of the Hornsby pitchers—Brandt, Delaney and Bob Smith—are set to win ball games, and the natural slugging strength of the outfit will do them no harm.

Two Gaelic Contests Put Over by Rain

The double football bill, Mayo versus Tipperary, and Galway versus Kerry, scheduled by the Gaelic Athletic Association at the Columbus Park grounds, was postponed owing to the rain.

The games will be played at the completion of the regular schedule. Quite a number of fans were on hand to watch the contests and were greatly disappointed when it was announced that the games were called off.

Wildcats Wild

The Wildcats of Cambridge would like to arrange games with any 13-14-year-old teams in Greater Boston or suburbs. Write John Ferguson, 49 Cushing st., Cambridge, or phone University 2838 any evening between 6 and 6 o'clock.

MOVE TO RULE OUT WOMEN IN OLYMPICS

By ALAN J. GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

Amsterdam, Aug. 6 (AP)—Controversy over whether women's track and field events should be retained on the Olympic program was brought to the fore of the congress of the International Amateur Athletic Federation this afternoon.

A majority report from the council in which the United States joined favored retaining the feminine features limited to not more than six events provided the gruelling 800-meter race be eliminated, but sharp opposition immediately developed. A prospective fight over the issue was postponed until tomorrow after England's representative had moved to abolish the women's events.

The federation reversed itself on tenth-second watches, adopting timing by them for races up to and including 250 meters only, after previously refusing to accept any records on a tenth second basis.

Today's action which, it was specified, is non-retroactive, followed the report of experts at Paris endorsing the accuracy of tenth-second watches and revealing that the perfection of accurate hundredth-second timepieces is likely in the near future. Charley Paddock's now famous nine and five-tenths for 100 yards would have been a world's record if the decision to accept tenth watches had been made ten days earlier. It is now on the books only as nine and three-fifths.

Heimach Arrives to Help Yanks

Chicago, Aug. 6 (INS)—Fred Heimach, who formerly pitched for the Athletics and Red Sox, has reported to the New York Yankees from St. Paul.

Manager Huggins, with a badly battered pitching staff, plans to start the southpaw in a day or two.

Pitchers Campbell and Shealy will be sent to St. Paul and Infielder Julian Wera has been transferred from Hollywood to the Yankee farm at St. Paul as part of the arrangement.

Molloy's 84 Leads Hearst Golf Field

bags filled with every make of club made quite a contrast to other youngsters who came in brown khakis with a few favorite clubs carried under their arms.

But golf was the main issue with the boys. They chattered happily while waiting to tee off, each with dreams of carrying home the large Hearst trophy. The players began to gather at 7 a. m., and at 8 a. m. the first threesome teed off in one of the most remarkable tournaments in the history of golf in the history of golf in this section.

Joe Lynch, a youngster of considerable experience, has been made the favorite to win the tournament by dint of his past performances. Lynch played against Francis Ouimet last week in the Jacques Cup play and showed brilliantly.

LYNCH HAS HARD TASK.

But the picking of a favorite means little in a field of 273 ambitious boys. They play with all their hearts and experience and temperament count for little in such a gathering.

Sport is the main object. In such a tournament there are bound to be a few dark horses.

Bill Donnelly and Wilfred Crossley of Norfolk, John Slattery of Saltaust, and John Healy of Longmeadow, are all sure of giving Lynch aflight for the title. Slattery won the Salem Country Club four ball invitation a few weeks ago teamed with Joe Fay.

Bill Sweeney, who won the Stony Brae open with a 74; Marty O'Toole, Johnnie Quinn, Melville Healy, Jr., Art Cody, Bill Taylor, Dick Nugent, Lee Hehir, Steve Sleeper, Henri Bourneuf, Bill Haverty, John W. O'Leary and Eugene Dolan are all boys in the tourney who have shown real golf in former tournaments in the vicinity.

Any one of these lads is apt to upset the favorite, while there is still a gang of practically 200 youngsters who have yet to be heard from. Most of these boys are caddies who have been playing the game since early childhood and have gained golf knowledge by watching champions perform.

Finnegan Faces Tough Foe in Jadick Tomorrow

BOY FROM PHILLIE IS GOOD

Big Crowd Will Watch Fast Fight at Braves Field

When Honeyboy Finnegan, Dorchester southpaw, steps into the ring tomorrow night at Braves Field, he will face the most important battle of his colorful career. He hopes to turn the tables on Johnny Jadick of Philadelphia, who recently earned a decision over him in a Philadelphia conflict.

Johnny, a fast-punching product of boxing's fast-growing school, figures to be the favorite on account of his victory over Finnegan, but the Dorchester boy's admirers say that the decision was a bad one and that Finnegan is the class of the two.

Jadick is known as a fast boy.

IT was learned for the first time by the Eagle's sensational climber in the ring yesterday, when he was put through his paces at the Boston Garden. Not only did Jadick show that he is fast, but he showed that he can punch. Those who watched him work out say that Jadick's punches are not only fast, but they are powerful. Jadick's manager, Tom Gola, says that Jadick is in the best condition of his career, and that he is confident that he will defeat the Dorchester boy.

Jadick's followers in this city have been quiet in action. He is following in the footsteps of Jack Delaney and Mickey Walker, who also went over the Boston boxing commission's head to get a match with Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia boxer who is now the idol of the Quaker City fans.

Jadick comes from the same district that produced Delaney and Walker, and he is said to be the hardest hitting Philadelphia boxer since the days of Delaney and Walker. He is also said to be a clever boxer. He is managed by Tom Gola, who also handles Mickey Walker.

Only during the past year has Jadick come to the front. He was originally a featherweight, but gained weight and now is a lightweight. He is one of the outstanding boxers in the Philadelphia district, and in the past few months has made rapid progress. He has won nine out of the last ten bouts he has fought.

THERE will be little difference in the odds of seven rivals going the route in the main event at Braves Field, but there will be considerable difference in the odds of the two leaders. Jadick opened the betting at 7-10 and Finnegan increased weighted to 8-10 at the ringside.

The regular summer feature of 10 rounders between six of the best will be continued for this show and with good seats in the ringside section selling for $3, the first show promises at 10 cents, it is expected that a capacity crowd will turn out. Promoter Tom Gola is also one of the biggest game attractions in the ring at present.

A second ten-round bout, three six-round events as well as three four rounders also are on the card.

The first and second bouts will bring together Tony Barney of the North End and Joe Mascuti of the South End, both lightweights. Both bouts recently gave the fans one of the best bouts of the season.

Minerva nailed a big surprise that might be expected the decision and now Pat Lee is out to turn the tables.

Early indications at 61 Canal st., where tickets may be procured, are that one of the biggest crowds of the season will be on hand.

Teal Triumphs

New Bedford, Aug. 6. The yearly racing of the Nonquit Boating Association on the Acushnet river, between wherry oarsmen, resulted in another victory for the Teal Club of New Bedford, which won the event by a thirteen-second margin over the Nonquit crew. The Teal Club has won the event for the past three years.

HORNET WINS IN YACHT RACE OPENER

The first Sunday of Marblehead race week was not a good one from the point of view of the racing man.

Out of three races scheduled only one, the Eastern Yacht Club's regular race for Q, R and S boats was sailed.

The postponed events were the Dixon Yacht Club's first annual dinner supper, and the Commodore Yacht Club's regular Sunday morning event.

Lack of breeze inside the harbor prevented the Corinthian's race and the heavy thunder squall which broke about 2:15 in the afternoon caused the Dixon to call off their supper for the day.

Many spectators were on hand to witness the Dixon's junior race of which a fleet of 15 Beetle Cat sloops and other juniors were to take a hand at sailing the big and small round mark of Marblehead's inner ascension first.

The opening race of the Corinthian Yacht Club was called off after several postponements. The wind would have failed to reach into the Corinthian Yacht Club line, and it was impossible to start the boats. A dive for running this race has to be announced later.

Shortly the Eastern Yacht Club had a light breeze from the south west. This allowed the club to sail from start to finish a five-mile affair over a windward and leeward course.

The inner south mark was used as the only turning buoy. Although the breeze was pretty light at times, the racing was fairly satisfactory.

In class Q, R, Devereux Barker's Hornet, owned by Commodore Vanderbilt, retrieved the winner. The Hornet, after a hard and close struggle for top honors with Isaac Edmonson's Ace.

The Hornet nosed out the Nora in the light going by eight seconds. Third place was taken by Arthur Smith's Nor'easter V, with the Jordel coming home in fourth position just ahead of the Venturer.

Farrell Nervous in First Tourney

By JOHNNY FARRELL
American Open Champion

It was in 1919 that the ability I had acquired in those long, tedious practice seances was recognized by someone other than myself. Jimmy, ever watchful of my progression, of course had seen me come along, slowly to be sure but none the less steadily, and when Tom Kerrigan selected me as his teaching assistant at the Siwanoy Country Club I swelled with pride.

However, the job was not exactly the one I had dreamed about. It seemed there was an awful number of people who need golf instruction. An endless stream, they appeared to me and with them I occupied my time from morning until evening.

Then I was so tired, both mentally and physically, that the urge to practice was not very keen. But I did not neglect my clubs. The love of the game had become deeply rooted and no matter how fatigued I became I managed to keep my swing in tune.

Until this time my only competitive experience had been gleaned in three interesting matches with Jimmy and Kerrigan and his brothers or some visiting professionals from neighboring clubs. I must confess that I was not of much assistance in these skirmishes and there were those humiliating occasions that I referred to before, when Jimmy, disgusted with my lack of proficiency, would sharply counsel me to school myself some more before I pretended to be a match player.

IT was in 1919 that I entered my first serious tournament, an open event at the North Shore Country club on Long Island. Before the battle I was quite confident I would fare well, but no sooner had I entered the fire of competition than I had misgivings. I suddenly discovered that tournament golf is much different from a mere friendly bout with my employer.

A nervousness stole over me that I could not account for. Nor could I shake it off. But it did not seriously hamper my game. I am confidently apprehensive of the whole adventure, but doubly determined that I would make a passable showing. I had one good round, a 75, but the others were no more than I had fared well and not to give free wheeling. But I could rightfully take pride in.

I learned, too, that the fit of nervousness that had been, during my first tournament, recurred in every succeeding competition. I was more mighty than perturbed, I am glad to say today, after years of strenuous competition, I am not altogether free of this pre-tournament nerve tension.

I DISCOVERED, too, that every tournament proved an invaluable experience. Technical knowledge is undoubtedly the prime requisite, but the poise that comes with competitive play is quite essential, too.

It was this same year that I got my first big thrill. I qualified for the professional golfers' champion ship at the Engineers' Country Club, and though I was eliminated in the very first round I had the satisfaction of knowing that the ousting was performed by one of the country's noted match players at that time—George McLean of Grassy Sprain in Bronxville. George is still at Grassy Sprain and still a fine player and a fine fellow.

FT. BANKS LISTS SIX BOUTS

Eddie Holmes of Providence and Henry Jance of the U. S. Navy will mix in the main bout of the weekly show at Fort Banks, Winthrop, on Thursday night. Both are rated as the classiest featherweights in the vicinity.

In the semifinal Tony Shucco of the North End and Tom Quigley of the National Guard, welters, will scrap in one of the four six-rounders scheduled. Oscar Record vs. Johnny Johns, and Freddie O'Connor vs. Johnny Delano will provide two more thrilling six-round tussles.

The fourth six-round festival of the night will find Eddie Collins, a Fort Banks boy, battling Louie Cozzi of Revere.

The final bout scheduled is a four-round get-together between Spike Delay and Peter Coughlin. Spike Delay is another Fort Banks scrapper while Coughlin hails from the Navy.

The domestic help problem is solved by using a Bulletin apartment and house to let ave advertised daily in the Far Rent columns.

OLYMPIC FIELD, Amsterdam, Aug. 6—Athletes from the United States once again won the myrtles brown and ivy sere or whatever is the symbol denoting an Olympic triumph, by the very comfortable margin of 69 points, bringing their total to 173 points.

Despite the much heralded failure of the American representatives to win firsts in the games, the tabulation shows that the boys from the land of the Free were victorious in no less than eight events, the wonderful work done by the 400 and 1600 meter relay teams piling 10 points on the already heavy United States total.

There were two points at the bottom of the United States tally sheet that should mean a lot to Jolie Fans. They were the result of the Spartan efforts of a short, slight, figure that finished the Marathon with a limned face wherein the marks of suffering showed plainly. It was Joie Ray.

The wild shouts of excitement and jubilation that greeted the victor and then the next three men were stilled as the great throng watched little Joie go slowly around the last meters of the cinder path with his face twisted in agony, biting his lips and struggling to reach the finish line.

ONLY a fifth place, where many home enthusiasts had predicted a win for the Illinois A. C. star. But that fifth is a glorious one.

It was too much to expect that Joie really could throw off the effects of a long journey, coupled with a fortnight of training in a country which is mainly below sea level and where the air is correspondingly bad.

That fifth place was a triumph for Joie. The third Marathon that he ever ran, and that an Olympic one, with the cream of the world's distance stars entered.

AND he finished fifth. Need any more be said?

Joie is now fairly comfortable though the twisted muscles in his legs which caused him to drop back in the final miles were causing him considerable bother.

El-Ouafi, who won the race, suffered not at all from the effects of the long grind. He is more or less of a hero at present, and, as usual, with a connoisseur, the excitement has made him forget the aches and strains which accompany such a race.

Finland's 102 points look big. That nation is only a diminutive one, when all is said and done, yet with a few more field event men it might have seriously threatened the American supremacy.

However, it's all over for another four years, and Uncle Sam can sport the victory wreath for that length of time without a bit of worry.

10 YACHTS START AFTER MANHASSET CUP TODAY

Two yachts of class R from foreign waters and eight local 20-raters will start in quest of the Manhasset Bay challenge cup off Marblehead this morning.

The trophy is now the property of the Eastern Yacht Club, which brought it to Marblehead from Long Island Sound waters three years ago.

Bay States Lose

Gardner, Aug. 6—Linell's homer in the last of the seventh gave South Gardner a 7-to-6 verdict over the Bay States of South Ashburnham. The game was called in the seventh because of rain.

MISS NORELIUS SETS NEW RECORD

The American crew led all the way and both pairs finished strong.

In a second elimination double sculls event, the German crew defeated Canada by two lengths.

The Argentine eight was eliminated from the regatta by the Polish eight, which won by two lengths in 6 minutes 24 2-5 seconds, the Argentine time was 6 minutes 33 seconds.

The American pair-oared shell without coxswain defeated the English pair today in the Olympic regatta on the Sloten canal.

The Americans beat the British by one length after a terrific race. The boats were dangerously close when approaching the finish line. The times were 7 minutes 12 seconds and 7:14 1-5.

The American pair which consisted of John Schmitt and Paul McDowell of the Penn Barge Club, Philadelphia, disposed of one of their strongest rivals by trimming the English representatives, O'Brien and Niber, and advanced one step nearer the finals for the championship in their class thereby. The Americans got the race in hand in its early stages, leading by a length at the half-way point and holding it against a strong British bid in the last 1,000 meters.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the race.

The German double sculls crew of Hoeck and Voight defeated the Canadian doubles crew of Joe Wright and Jack Guest after a spirited contest. The Canadians led by two yards at the 700 meter mark and the German crew was leading by 1¼ yards at the half-way post. The Canadian crew made up a little yard, but when the race finished were trailing by two yards. Both pairs were rowed out. The German time was 6 minutes 54 2-5 seconds and the Canadian time 7 minutes 33 3-5 seconds.

The French four-oared crew without coxswain which was to have rowed the Penn Barge Club quartet, representing America, today was forced to scratch because of illness of one of its oarsmen, giving the Americans a one-over which carried them into the third elimination.

Variety of Punches Bewildered Heeney

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

New York, Aug. 6—It was very important that I outguess Tom Heeney at every turn in our struggle at the Yankee Stadium. I had to hit outside his defense, when he believed I was driving inside, and inside when he thought my attack was coming outside.

It is exactly the same theory that Walter Johnson turned loose on the baseball world. It made the Washington star one of the greatest pitchers of all time, and it has made many a champion within the ring.

For example, on a dark night, Walter Johnson would speed a fast ball over the plate. Batter after batter would throw at the opposition and be used to seeing a curve on target that he had his mind set to mix with the coming curves. And in the final five years of his career, the veteran depended almost entirely on a change of pace and with the deceiving ball.

A change of pace in the ring presses up the other fellow's defense and thus makes your own defense more perfect because it has less to do. At the same time it paves the way for your own defense.

TIME after time it worked out perfectly and especially in one of the fundamental strategies of the game. Many times I have used the trick of appearing worried against a charging opponent, stepping around with pondered brains and fast moving hands to create an appearance of uncertainty and nervousness.

This gave Heeney the impression that I was muddled, a bit rattled and in my plan and uncertain as to what to do next. Almost every time, as I rejoiced with a left, Tom would lower his guard down a little, anxious to catch me in a moment of indecisiveness.

Almost every time I stepped in with the full weight of my body thrown behind a right-hand punch to the head or the heart. Almost every time the plunging weight of Heeney's 200½ pounds was added to the power of the blow as a landed my fist and even on those I had intended to hit for first challenger never did take that one.

It was based with a punch on this that caused that jagged slash in Jack Dempsey's forehead in the eighth round of our second match in Chicago. I tried it then on the champion and, as he rushed in the blow landed a little high. Only one knuckle, the first on my right hand, landed squarely on his forehead, but that one was enough to open a deep, ripping cut that stretched down to the inside edge of his left eyebrow and nearly put him to the floor.

USING this same strategy, in the eighth round, I hit Heeney the hardest punch I believe I ever directed at any man. My back was toward the ropes near a neutral corner as Tom charged. I smashed my right hand under his heart as he charged forward and the impact must have sounded around the ring-side. I could feel Heeney wilt under that smash. That punch was the beginning of the end.

"Sure, but I'd rather have a Chesterfield"

Mild enough for anybody and yet they Satisfy*

*WHEN we sign our name to a statement in an advertisement, we mean just that. To us, signing an advertisement is in no way different from signing a contract.

There is no double meaning, no half-truth, no false note in our statement that Chesterfield cigarettes are mild enough for anybody—and yet they satisfy.

NEWPORT TAKES PRIDE IN ITS FLOWER SHOW, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Society Matrons Exhibit Orchids From Exclusive Gardens and Greenhouses

RIOTOUS COLORS ON NEWPORT'S exclusive sands, when Fashion parades or bathes, will be as nothing compared to the rainbow blaze when Milady of the upper circle exhibits her pet horticultural marvels at the Casino flower show, Newport greenhouses and Newport gardens are dear to their multimillionaire owners' hearts, even though the pearl hung dowagers are possessed of Midas purses that command magnificent estates, yachts, and all the lavish gewgaws large expenditures bring. And hoity toity dames presiding over Newport's exclusiveness are just as proud of their orchids and love to display them as much as any country housewife her peonies and sweetpeas.

NEWPORT'S VERY CHOICEST blooms will be brought to the Casino August 14 and 15. And massed by experts to show every last bit of their beauty and color. The Berwind gardens, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice's famous floral acres, mammoth Vanderbilt greenhouses at "The Breakers," tropical rarities from south of the line, some very specially guarded and grown marvels from the Arthur Curtiss James wealth of horticulture will be represented, along with contributions from virtually every estate in the colony. Newport does its annual flower show with as much flourish as it puts into frivolities, but at the former, unlike the latter occasions, the general public may participate.

THOMAS POWERS IS IN Newport again. Equipped with a marvelous wardrobe, in size and variety equal to a bridegroom's, and with the savoir faire of a veteran boulevardier, Mr. Powers is letting his countenance beam on his favorite summer thoroughfare, Bellevue ave. And permitting his extensive and Londonesque outfit to flatten itself always gorgeous sartorial scene. For many seasons Mr. Powers has had a Munchinger-King apartment where he plays the host to a choice circle at recherche parties. His Newport summers come after late winter at Hot Springs, and occupy the proper place in his seasonal scheme of winters at Palm Beach and late autumns in New York and Washington.

MRS. BAYARD WARREN doing a Newport weekend represented Boston's exclusive circles in the smart society spa, where Bostonian aristocracy is not this season so heavy in evidence as in others summers past. Mrs. Warren registered at the Casino as a guest of the Clarence Dolans. Benjamin F. R. Bassett, sponsored there by Gordon Douglas, in a way represents Boston, since he married one of this city's most charming girls, the former Miss Gertrude Russell. Mrs. Warren's blonde good looks and radiant presence, on the tennis courts, were enhanced by a sports costume of white verging into cream, its severity quite English and its chic entirely Parisian.

EVEN SO ENERGETIC A young man as Leslie Buswell finds that making wedding plans and conducting every day and evening rehearsals is a strenuous program. "Peter Ibbetson" goes on the Stillington stage late in August, and scarcely will the plaudits have died down for this second theatrical offering than Mr. Buswell takes unto himself a wife, with due ceremonial circumstance, September 11 is the wedding date, but even so momentous an occasion in his life and its infinite planning, in no wise are permitted to interfere with amateur theatricals when Mr. Buswell is in charge.

MRS. CHARLES MOORE, A chic young matron spending the summer in and about Gloucester, is likely to be cast for an important part in the DuMaurier play. She hails from New York and Greenwich, looks like Deauville, and has the elusive something that gets over the footlights. A delightful acquisition to Stillington forces is Mrs. Moore. She ably seconds the accomplished Mrs. FitzWilliam Sargent, who has a splendid stage technique. She is the most professional amateur this region has enjoyed for some time, and her work in "Pygmalion" revealed her a find.

A SUNDAY SAILING FROM Boston of the Laconia took special social significance from Mrs. B. Nason Hamlin's presence aboard. The Hamlins seem to be moving almost continuously across the water, in one direction or another. Happy travellers, both, with a host of friends across the seas to make them welcome and tender warm hospitality. Friends of the Hamlins are scattered all up and down through the British Isles, and Ireland. So their stay abroad are a continuous round of country house visits given great gusto by Parisian and London interludes.

PETERBOROUGH SOCIETY turned out en masse for its annual gymkhana and then put on its most gorgeous evening clothes to see Miss Ruth St. Denis dance in her marvelous fashion at Marlearden. A brilliant audience for Miss St. Denis, an enthusiastic gallery for the gymkhana, large house parties and smart costumes galore made week-ending in that section of Southern New Hampshire adjacent to Dublin and Peterborough most enjoyable and red lettered. Miss Elizabeth Morison arranged the gymkhana. And did it with a veteran finish. It's no small task to stage so spectacular an event, but Miss Morison, with Sally Parker an able lieutenant, did the job perfectly.

INSURANCE CO. HAS WEEK TO PRODUCE $3,500,000

St. Louis, Aug. 6 (AP)—Roy C. Toombs, and other officer of the International Life Insurance Company, have been given one week in which to produce $3,500,000 in securities or face a recommendation of criminal action by eight insurance commissioners from different states, who are investigating the company. Toombs, in Chicago, denied last night that there was any shortage or discrepancy in the affairs of his company saying that the International "is in a very splendid condition."

ROCKET BOAT BLOWS UP ON ITS FIRST TEST

Bingen, Germany, Aug. 6 (AP)—Fritz Von Opel's new motor racing yacht Opel IV exploded and sank within a few minutes near Bingerlock today when the manufacturer of rocket propelled machines was giving the boat its first test. Von Opel and his companions jumped overboard in their leather clothes and swam ashore.

Saturday one of his rocket cars exploded, when being tried out for speed on the rails.

PREDICT ELECTION OF HUGHES TO WORLD COURT

Geneva Aug. 6 (AP)—League of Nations leaders predicted today that Charles Evans Hughes would be elected at the September assembly to the seat in the permanent court of international justice vacated by John Bassett Moore. Mr. Hughes has been nominated by 26 countries. Dr. Walter Simons, president of the supreme Court of Germany, is second choice, having been proposed by nine countries.

Dearest Anne:—

What a happy day this is going to be, for again we will wend our way through cool, delightful shops.

Did you ever stop to think

What A Rare Blessing

a permanent wave is when you are in bathing or in a steaming tub of warm water! And how thrilling it is to ride without a hat and do all sorts of things out doors without losing the on bit of your wave. Houghton & Dutton's Beauty Shop on the second floor at 55 Tremont St. is prepared to give you gorgeous, wide permanent waves for $10. You may have any number of curls for this price. Dyed hair or gray hair are benefited much by the Frederics Vita Tonic Compound process and it will not change the shade. Or perhaps you'd like a famous "Komplex" facial for $1.50 which will leave your face restful and clear and has no drying effect. This is a fine shop!

Varicose Veins

are a detriment to the most fastidious women, but Elaine surely looked trim and smart when she came out of Dr. A. P. Saul's office at 110 Tremont St., Room 312, third floor, the other day. When she went in the contour of her legs was broken and horrid, but when she purchased a fresh color seamless silk elastic stocking with knitted in heel for $6.75, what a difference! Smooth and exquisite was the contour of her legs then. Dr. Saul's arch support shoes, priced at $5.00, combine style, quality and arch protection and help keep your tired feet happy. For expert treatments for corns, calluses and all foot ailments, visit my foot specialist, Dr. Saul, and find relief!

I Happened In

to Thresher Brothers, at 19 Temple Pl., last Friday while their great Bale sale was going on and, my dear, you'd be surprised at the gorgeous assortments, pongees, radiums, prints, silks, Shantungs, printed chiffons and wash silks that were in resplendent profusion all about the store. And priced at $1.a yard! Of course the sale is scheduled for just a week, but this week there will be a great many lovely silks left over, which will be closed out at that same low price. Now is the time to get your summer wash silks at low prices!

The Beauty Studio

of D'Angelo & Murray at 110 Tremont St., room 304-7, is one that I want you to visit, when, for they are giving a special price on their lovely Leon Oil permanents during this month. Of course, you know that this method is unique in that they use the Leon Tocolene, which are carefully steamed into the hair and no waving fluid touches it. They improve the strength and beauty of the hair, and this is a simple, safe kind of permanent. You'll get a perfect wave. Or have one of their Special Facials to bleach out your tan and freckles and a very special finger wave. For any sort of beauty culture, call Capitol 1289 or Liberty 7739!

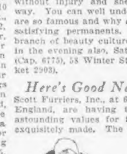
I Know You'll Be Interested in the continued sale at Burt's, 17 West St., for their sales are always anticipated by those who like to wear good-looking as well as comfortable shoes, for they are going to be especially fascinating this week, for they are selling patent leathers, calfskins, reptile skins, kids and satins in any style that you might desire, all for the very small price of $7.85. You'll find these on the second floor, or, if you want Ground Grippers, there are five hundred pairs of samples on the street floor priced at $6.45. We know how to appreciate Burt's shoes, don't we, Anne?

The Spanish Galleries

of Chandler & Co., Tremont St. at West, have again put out a helping hand to those who are watching their budget and they are offering some gorgeous fur coats at most unusual prices. Milady adores furs only next to jewels and in this day and age it's rather a necessity than an extravagance to own a fur coat. Hudson Seal Coats in softest grays and tans, still most fashionable, are priced at $75. They are made of selected skins. I don't believe you'd find them anywhere else at this low price. Sealine coats, those luxurious coats of seal dyed rabbit, trimmed smartly with Fitch, Fox or dyed Marten, are priced from $119.50 up. I know you'd like one that I saw in Sealine priced at $125, trimmed with cocoa colored squirrel. Jane has always wanted a muskrat coat and here's her chance, for they are priced at $155, and are cut in that smart Johnny style that becomes her so very well. You can buy your coats now at these amazing prices and they will be charged on your October bill, the one you receive on November 1. If you wish you can make a small deposit and they will be kept in storage for you until November.

It's Really True That

the Poll Parrot Beauty Salon is conducting an interesting drive. What do you think Anne? Mrs. Green is making a drive to complete 50,000 permanents by August 30th. Doesn't this speak for itself though? For surely that means that the whole town's talking about the utter wonder of the Miracle Wave which has taken so many prizes and well we know that Mr. Green is a master indeed at waving. Mrs. Green superintends the waves and as a special inducement she is is giving for a limited time only, if you bring this clipping with you, a bottle of Stayset Magic Waver, a bottle of brilliantine and a silk net cap to hold your waves in place, with every permanent wave. She can tint or bleach your hair so that it can be permanently waved without injury and she does white hair in a truly remarkable way. You can well understand why the Poll Parrot Beauty Salons are so famous and why so many people tell their friends about their satisfying permanents. You may have expert bobbing or any branch of beauty culture at the Poll Parrot Salons which are open in the evening also, Saturdays included, either at 177 Tremont St. (Cap. 6775), 58 Winter St. (Cap. 5846), or 40 Scollay Square (Haymarket 2903).

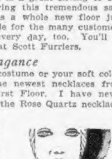


Here's Good News for New England Women

Scott Furriers, Inc., at 89 Summer St., the largest fur store in New England, are having their annual August fur sale with most astounding values for that are from finest skins and most exquisitely made. The secret of their satisfied customers is that their business is so very vast that they are able to supply your needs at a very low cost and they have a high reputation for fair dealings, liberal terms and sincere interest in your welfare. By making a small payment you may be a member of their Unique Fur Club, making further payments at your convenience and wearing your coat while you are paying for it. Perhaps you'd rather select your coat now, pay a small payment, and the balance when you want your coat in the fall. Or open a 30, 60 or 90-day charge account when you buy your coat. It is a great saving to buy your coat during this tremendous sale, for prices are only $80 to $550. There's a whole new floor just added to make the store more comfortable for the many customers who come in every day, too. You'll be everlastingly glad if you buy your coat at Scott Furriers.

To Lend Extravagance

and utter exquisitiveness to your sports costume or your soft colorful chiffon dress you'll adore one of the newest necklaces from Silence and Symphony on the First Floor. I have never seen anything as dainty and alluring as the Rose Quartz necklaces with the new front clasps. Some of these are carved and some plain. Others are the new flat beads so popular just now. For beads to blend with your tans and browns, your grays and greens, the genuine jade necklaces come in the same styles. These are priced from $18.50 to $50, although you may buy a strand of beads of rose quartz priced at $5. Carved jade or green onyx are most dainty with the front clasp also and are priced at $20 and up. Shimmering crystal beads cut as fine as diamonds are priced at $7.50. Gorgeous glittering genuine Chinese Crystal with the front clasp set in solid gold are priced at $22.50. And the new bell shaped crystal beads are beautiful. The price is $18.50. Genuine carved amethyst beads the color of violets, with front clasp, are priced at $25.



Superior Service

means something, my dear, in the shop of L. Cunningham at 561 Boylston St. She gives a guarantee with your permanent and you may have a Frederics Vita Tonic Compound method, Nestle Circuline or Elegrene as you desire. She gives large, deep, loose or tight marcel permanents with Mae Murray curls. All waves are wrapped for ringlet ends. Jane Is Happy and oh so proud of her fair soft skin unmarred by any blemish. She daily thanks Miss Elizabeth Sparkes, at 120 Tremont St, for the satin-soft and lovely skin. For she was bothered terribly with a superfluous hair and Miss Sparkes removed it with her magic electric needle. She has a special machine for the removal of hair from the legs. Now is the time to have that done so that your thinnest silk like stockings may be worn without the annoyance caused by superfluous hair. Call Hancock 7592 for appointments, always most private!

"Is it Magic that makes our Beth's skin so fair and lovely of late?" Not magic, my dear, but just because she does as we do and uses Virosol and you may have a Frederics Vita Tonic Compound method, Nestle Circuline or Elegrene as you desire. She gives large, deep, loose or tight marcel permanents with Mae Murray curls. All waves are wrapped for ringlet ends. The operators are most expert and they do gray, bleached or dyed hair successfully. The $10 price on these fine permanents will be continued through August. Call Back Bay 9069 for appointments!

Marion's Hair

has golden gleaming lights and it falls around her face in such a gorgeous winsome wave. She had a Frederics Vita-Tonic method permanent for $15 at our small friend's, Helen Lynch, at 110 Tremont St., New Studio Bldg., Room 324. This sort of wave is particularly fine for light or gray hair. And you'll love Miss Helen's waves for they are all very lovely. For hair dyeing, marcelling or any of the beauty needs that you may have call Liberty 0076. This dear shop is open evenings also for your convenience.

Colors Glow and Gleam within your home these days. Molley's guest room is too lovely to adequately describe. Her furniture is softest green with subdued gleaming amber lights and now she has some exquisite green sheets to add that last touch of color to her room. They come in colors to suit your particular personality in softest tones of blue, pink, gold, lavender or green. Pastel sheets 72"x108", twin-bed size are priced at $3.50, the 90"x108", large bed size at $4. They are hemstitched beautifully. Pillow cases, 42x38½", are 90c each, and the 45x38½ size are 95c each. Or you may have white sheets with pastel borders. Buy them in Jordan Marsh Company's Bed Clothing Section on the fourth floor of the Main Store.

"I've Never Enjoyed

anything, Priscilla, quite as much as I have my permanent" said Betty to me today. And well she may be proud of it, for it is one of those gorgeous, wide, natural waves they give at the Gilchrist & Co. Beauty Shop, third floor, 417 Washington Street. It's a Frederics Vita Tonic wave as you have guessed, priced at $10, which includes shampoo and wave set. Parisityle permanent waves are priced at $12.50. The operators at this shop are expert on finger waves. So many of us need finger waves to perfectly set our permanents in the beginning. The price is $1.25. Visit the Beauty Shop, third floor, for satisfaction!

Good Things

are said to come in small packages and you'll agree, Anne, that good things are found in small shops when you see the amazing values at Miss Evelyn's at 8 Winter St., third floor. For she is having Mid-Season Clearance Sale to make room for fall frocks and she has repriced every last thing in her shop at $5.25, $7.95 and $9.95. This includes georgettes, crepes, fine to wear now and for fall wear, adorable chiffons, some of them printed and some of them made in cool ensembles, washable crepes and beautiful evening frocks. They come in broken sizes, but you are sure to find the dress you want!

Beauty and Youth

restored by Dr. John Post's Course of Facial Rejuvenation, makes you look years younger no matter how old you are. It removes all that wrinkles, lines, sagging muscles, freckles, blackheads and other skin imperfections and blemishes tend to disappear. It freshens and stimulates the skin and so imparts to the complexion the radiant glow of youth. Try a $5 facial demonstration for $3 and see the startling effect on your face, which is positive proof what the true, scientific method of caring for the complexion can do for you. Telephone Haymarket 1647 for appointment or call at Post Institute, 6 Beacon St., room 914.

I wonder, my Anne, if you look forward to our shopping trips as much as I do. It seems that I can hardly wait for Monday to come each week, for that means that I will meet you at the train and that we will spend our whole day in the shops together. I guess I mentioned last week how the fall fashions were filling the shops and taking the place of our delightful sport frocks. Now they are everywhere and the great August sales of furs are going on also. It seems rather warm to shop for fall clothes, yet now is the time to get real good bargains. We've had a happy time today and next week there's much in store for us.

Loving you always,

Priscilla

Can a Girl Have Too Much Feminine Appeal?

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Deane, golden-haired, dark-eyed, who has lived her 18 years with David and Margaret O'Day, foster parents, in Worcester, learns she is the granddaughter of the wealthy and aristocratic Montgomery Deanes of Boston and Brookline, who disinherited her father and do not even know of her existence. Her mother is killed. Through John Blair, a young man she has learned to admire, she secures a letter to Howard Wescott, manager of a Boston mill. She meets Ginger Varden, a style model, who takes her to her boarding house and introduces her to her friends. One of these, Vic Flemming, makes love to her and asks her to marry him. Wescott, attracted by her beauty, offers her a place in the office.

That same evening while Vic, Jerry Durant, Ginger and Nancy are dining and dancing at the Pheasant, Wescott comes in; Vic picks a quarrel and they have a rough and tumble fight and are arrested.

The papers are full of the episode. Ginger insists on getting Nancy a job at modelling with Ziegelbaum, her employer.

When Wescott sees Nancy the next morning he acts as though nothing had happened, takes her to lunch to the country, shows jealousy of Vic Flemming and kisses Nancy.

She feels drawn to Wescott and confides in him her story all except the name of her grandparents.

She wonders if she is in love with him, all the time recalling John Blair. Wescott takes her motoring and shows his fondness for her. She accepts a job modelling for some evening style shows in nearby places, planning to ask Wescott to let her off early for a week.

Her rehearsal proves a great success with Ginger's employer.

KITTY'S RESOLVE

OUR sorrows are oft lightened by sympathy; but the grief that may not be spoken—the weight of trouble that slender shoulders must bear alone—who, oh! who shall know save those who have borne it?

The struggle and strife of a farmer's life
Are not worthwhile after all;
I plow and I sweat—I harvest—and yet
Another guy gets it all.
When I sell my crops—the price always drops,
The market just fades away—away—away.
I don't get a cent of all that I've spent,
But the middle man gets his pay—this day.
I know what I'll do—get an acre or two
Somewhere 'neath a friendly sky;
I'll just raise enough food for my own little brood,
And let the rest of the world go buy.

SHORT CUTS TO SUCCESS

By LUCY LOWELL

THE more I observe of the struggle for success, the more convinced I become that only work—earnest, honest effort—is the way upon which one may climb to achievement which will be permanent when it is reached.

Many another road has been tried and some of these roads have led to spectacular places, one which seemed to be filled with everything the most exciting could demand. Wealth, influence, glory—all of those have been attained by devious methods, some more round about than others, some remarkable only in that they so frankly were short cuts.

But the places have tumbled low when the supports gave way. Personal favor, for example, is a frail thing to build upon; one may play upon it with all cleverness, nurse it along, take every precaution to see that it remains untouched. And yet it changes. Humanity is subject to whim and—one who depends solely upon the liking of another is constantly in danger of finding that dependence swept away.

Bluff is another roundabout road, and this is likely to come to a sudden end. For no matter how bravely one may speak, no matter with what assurance one deports himself, those who must be shown demand something stable eventually, something more convincing than breezy assurances, egotistical bluster.

Many depend upon that subtle occupation known as "playing politics" to get them to the heights; a process of flattering the boss, undermining co-workers, snatching at opportunities and exploiting them no matter who may be hurt—making a sort of serpentine course upward.

And this is the most dangerous method of all, being the slyest, most selfish.

As I say, any of these devious routes may succeed for a time—but only for a time. It is honest effort, meritorious work, which insures permanent success.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE modern flapper might draw some sort of conclusion from the fact that Adam never took any sentimental interest in Eve, until she discovered modesty and dolled herself up in a few clothes.

To be thoroughly up to Hoyle these days, a girl has to keep "a stiff upper lip" for business purposes—and a soft lower lip for kissing purposes.

The woman who can open her baby eyes wide and look at him with admiring awe and astonishment has won a whole lap in the race for his affections. But the woman with brains has a big handicap to overcome. Her glance of perfect comprehension, like a keen surgical knife, cuts clear through to his vanity.

There are no formal proposals of marriage any more; people just wake up to find themselves engaged—that is, the woman finds herself engaged and the man wakes up.

* * *

According to a disillusioned husband, the worst thing about teaching a woman to drive is that you turn her from a helpless and admiring dependent into an exciting and sarcastic critic.

* * *

A "conservative woman" is one who gives up her long hair, her long skirts and her Victorian ideals so slowly and reluctantly that she is nearly fifty before she becomes a full-fledged flapper.

No woman feels "financially depressed" nowadays as long as the shop will let her charge accounts run and there is enough credit at the garage to keep the car filled with gasoline.

No matter how female a woman's MIND is made up not to let a man make a fool of her, she never can tell when her heart will stick and tempt her to make a fool of herself.

A woman has a lot of respect for all her husband's "convictions" and "convictions" until she happens to attend one, and discovers that the "morning sessions" are largely taken-overs from the evening revelries.

Hornblower Firm Just 40 Years Old Today

Forty years in the investment and brokerage business have been completed by Hornblower & Weeks. From a small local Boston Stock Exchange firm that was founded by Hartridge in summer days August 6, 1882, the firm has grown to a national investment institution of the first importance, considerations in the New York, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia and San Francisco markets, and the leading investment houses of the world.

The firm was founded by Henry Hornblower and Ralph Hornblower & Weeks and opened its office in one room in the old Merchants Exchange building at 53 State st. Three desks was the total equipment. James F. Hopkins, who now becomes senior partner, was the first employee. There are now 200 employees.

Henry Hornblower's financial experience began with the firm of Hornblower & Page, of which his father, E. T. Hornblower, was a partner. Ralph Hornblower was the founder, known as E. T. Hornblower & Son and operated as such from 1870 to August, 1882.

Mr. Hornblower bought a seat on the Boston Stock Exchange on July 17, 1882, and became one of the eight sales members of the Exchange whose membership is available today. The Boston Stock Exchange seat of Mr. Hornblower cost $12,000 in 1888. Now seats sell at about $29,000.

In 1901 Hornblower & Weeks moved to 31 Milk st., into the new Building on Devonshire st., remaining there for five years. In 1906 the firm moved into the old Exchange on State st., leasing for a term of years offices on the second floor of the then new Exchange Building.

On August 6, 1906, the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the firm, the Hornblower and Weeks Building at 89 Congress st. was completed and opened for occupancy. This has since been the home office of the firm. Practically three floors and the basement of the building are now used for the various departments of its business.

Present partners in the firm of Hornblower & Weeks, with their date of entry into the firm, are as follows: Henry Hornblower, Boston, 1888; James F. Hopkins, Boston, 1900; Edward L. BUSINESS HAS CHANGES FOR BETTER

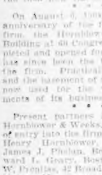
By B. C. FORBES

New York, Aug. 6—Business is doing better than the security market.

Stock quotations fell back somewhat last week. New financing was on a large scale, and investors were losing the dullest month in recent times. Undigested securities are a burden to the market, and prices have not to be reckoned with at the moment. Brokers' loans increased $100,000,000 last week. Oil shares revealed that coal exports last month reached almost 10,000,000.

Business developments, on the other hand, were of a highly encouraging character.

The general price level and tone to me is very distinctly better. Crop prospects have improved. Consumer sentiment, not buying in large lots, is buying freely. Stocks are more or less unsettled owing to the uncertainties of the railroad situation, but the 1923 farm income promises to be a good deal larger than this year's, provided we succeed in getting our crops to market.



B. C. Forbes

The latest census figures likewise reveal that the turn of the year brought a turn in the weekly store sales. The increase in the beginning of July was credited small gain over the previous week, a comparison of the two years showing a gain of 5% over the year. Analysis of the figures because of the Fourth of July period and that the improvement is not due to any abnormal activity in any one line.

Bank clearings continue to show substantial gains over last year, but they are not yet back to the old pace in measuring general conditions because very few people are borrowing from the banks for speculation.

Oil shares received encouragement from the recent being made by the oil companies. Gasoline stocks reported in much greater volume than deliveries. The year may bring new production records for the industry. However, the profit margin is not acceptable to the companies.

America's automobile industry continues to be the wonder of the world. Consumers buying is being maintained at a level without expectation, with no let-up apparently within sight. Much credit is due to be credited in no small measure to the sleepless energetics of leading manufacturers that are constantly improving the exercise of able brains, succeeding in improving their cars, in appearance and quality, without adding to the cost.

Next to agriculture, building activities, grouped as a whole, comprise our most important industry. Notwithstanding the notable expansion in operations during the last five years, the demand for new structures is showing little or no sign of decreasing. Authorities declare the the 1923 total is likely to remove favorably with 1927.

One gratifying consequence has been a reduction in unemployment.

HAIL, HAIL, THE GANG'S ALL HERE

as a "double" of "Mary Ann." The scene finally fell to Little Miss Campbell who came all the way from Manchester, N. H., on the hottest day of the year to participate. Her father, Charles Campbell, is a mill worker.

HAS UNDERSTUDY

Four-year-old Gloria Metcalf of 127 Washington st., Brighton, daughter of Irving W. Metcalf, a shoe factory superintendent, was a close second to Miss Campbell and will be her understudy.

In a field of 100 colored kiddies, four-year-old Syreatha Jenkins, daughter of Wardell Jenkins, porter, 78 Kendall st., Roxbury, walked away with first honors as a "double of "Mary." Second place went to Edith Johnson, six years of age, daughter of John Johnson, 3 Bowser, of 18 Pleasant View ave., Everett.

CONTEST POPULAR

More than 2000 New England children competed in this popular contest of the Boston Evening American, whose object was the creation of "doubles" of principals in "Our Gang" comedies. It was without question, one of the most interesting and popular contests ever conducted by this newspaper.

Now that the New England "gang" is complete, the next great task of Hailsmith will be the filming of his new comedies, which will begin on August 20, 21 and 22 in which the above named children will play the leading roles. Other children who were entered in the contest may participate in the making of the picture if the big scenes calling for a large number of kiddies.

A special representative of Hal Roach, director of "Our Gang" comedies, has been in Boston for several days looking over available places where the local film will be taken, including that upon Nantasket Beach. Newton, as the ideal place, because of its natural surroundings, is the city in which the animals housed there.

ANIMALS TO BE USED.

These will all be used in connection with the filming of the comedies. One of the big features of the comedy will be a blueberry pie-eating contest. The Hal Roach New England expect to work overtime during the filming of that scene in order to have enough on hand for the contest. The children are going to have a big time, and a paying part in the picture. They will be admitted to Norumbega Park free as the guests of Hal Roach. The picture will be shown at the Orpheum during the entire week of September 2.

The six children selected by the judges during personal appearances at Loew's Orpheum Theater are now candidates for the grand prize of a three-months' trip to Hollywood and $100 a week during that period while they work in real "Our Gang" comedies at Hollywood. Round trip transportation expenses of the parents of the winner will be included. Hal Roach is to be the sole judge in the finals. Details of the final contest will be announced later in the Boston Evening American.

HIGH WAGES IN U. S. SHOWN BY LABOR BUREAU

FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor

Last week we printed data written by First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett, former Boston postmaster. The picture was showing that employed American workmen occupy an enviable position.

GEORGE B. EVERITT

Latest Bureau of Labor statistics furnish further comparisons, indicating that the high wages of the U. S. A. is in which we live and prosper.

Labor Bureau's comparative figures follow:

Daily wage of bricklayers for 8 hours: Austria $5, $1.39; Belgium $1.92, Denmark $1.12, Germany $4, United States $12.56.

Carpenters—Belgium $1.36, Czechoslovakia $1.12, England $2.06, Germany $1.86, Italy $1.62, United States $10.16.

Common laborers in building trades — Austria $1.12, Belgium $.93, Germany $1.47, Italy $.84, Norway $1.38, Sweden $3.69, United States $4.

Coal miners—Great Britain $2.62 to $2.65, United States $6.28 to $9.65.

Farm hands—France $.69, Germany $.82, Great Britain $1.27, Norway $1.25, United States $3.36.

Railway engineers—Germany, $1.81 to $4.27, Great Britain, $4.36, United States, $7.83.

Railway conductors and locomotive firemen—Germany, $1.48 to $2.07, Great Britain, $1.61 to $1.94, United States, $4.

Mouth's wages of able seamen—France, $.82, Germany, $.22, Great Britain, $44 Italy, $.26, United States private vessels, $80, United States government vessels, $.45.

Since 1922 there has been a steady increase in wages per hour until in 1922 wages were 12% per cent higher than pre-war year 1913.

Rapidly rising prices for Montgomery Ward on the New York and Boston stock Exchanges have led its to inquire into existing plans. As revealed by President George B. Everitt, these call for retail stores in about 1500 cities. A store will be opened in each of Portsmouth, N. H., and further New England expansion will follow.

General Manager of Chain Stores Fred W. Jameson of the Montgomery Company tells me: "Contrary to the general expectation, retail merchants heartily endorse our plans as they find they are drawing customers from enormous distances with increasing day after day, as of the town where our store is located."

News of organization of the Bay State's newest bank, the Needham National and Savings Bank, was given in this column last week. Treasurer Horace A. Dorrer of the William Carter Co. will be president, but the officers have not yet been elected. Shawmut Corporation will own 50 per cent of the stock.

President Jere A. Downs, nominated again to be head of the Boston Stock Exchange, is a popular choice, I judge from general comment in State Street circles. Certainly the Boston Stock Exchange has been given new life under President Downs' energetic direction.

TODAY

Byrd will kill a few tons of them, and they will keep fresh indefinitely, with temperature 40 below. That fresh meat will protect his expedition from scurvy, curse of explorers.

For a change there are penguins, solemn creatures, looking like little men, walking around, so friendly, coming up to the tents and very curious.

It must be unpleasant to knock the little creatures on the head.

Various automobile companies have broken sales records in the first half of this year, and sales in the second half will equal $1,500,000,000 at least.

A few years ago that would have made old-fashioned bankers predict disaster.

The automobile, making vast tracts of land accessible, has increased the value of real estate so enormously that the cost of cars that cause the increase is nothing. For every dollar spent on automobiles, land values have increased more than ten dollars—so say statisticians of time saved, happiness increased.

Sailors call the trip westward across the Atlantic "Hell Bay," but another airplane has learned that it is an accurate description.

The courageous young aviators are safe, which is the main thing. There is no doubt they will try again.

PARIS AROUND THE CORNER BY SHORT WAVE

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

MANY A MAN, and women for that matter, gets a powerful kick from the evening radiophone talk of the folks the nation, the town, the club or the destinies of a Doberman-Pinscher in the palm of the hand. A healthier thrill is that which a young radio engineer, formerly of Boston and now of Detroit, gets when he holds London in his hand, E. T. Flewelling, whose name is known to all short-wave fans, has been in his old home town for a few days, renewing old acquaintances, and bubbling over with enthusiasm for his newest development, the Flewelling-A-C Dayton short-wave adapter.

SMALL BUT MIGHTY

OUT IN MILTON, at the home of Dr. Maxwell MacDonald, Flewelling gave a remarkable demonstration of the space-leaping abilities of his little wonder. The adapter, about the size and shape of a novel Ed Cleaner clip, permits one to clip a socket for interchangeable coils, a socket for a detector tube, a vernier dial for condenser control and for the antenna binding post, and a three-wire plug for insertion in the detector socket of an ordinary broadcast receiver. Three interchangeable coils bring in short-wave stations from about 12 to 80 meters, thus reaching all the large United states stations which are regularly issuing programs, short wave, from London, Paris, Holland, Germany, South Africa, Russia, and way stations.

ONE DIAL

TAKING the adapter in his hand, Flewelling placed it in the hands of your reporter. "Here, take this in your left hand," said he, "and in turn that dial to 70." Through the loud speaker came waves of music, a dance time played by an orchestra with peculiar rhythm. "What is it?" says I. "London," says he. "I know that rhythm anywhere. They just can't get the American swing." Once more, the fellow announced, came on the air and told the name of the hotel from which the music was coming. They're slow and sparing with their announcements, these English, but they're getting here with their radio programs.

GETS LONDON DAILY

FOR SOME time past Flewelling has been rebroadcasting London programs by means of his adapter through his own nam station. He is proud of the fact that he has been able to maintain fairly schedule. He is all enthusiasm for short wave, and well he may be. With this gadget you have no fear of that short-wave bugbear, body capacity. You can get on and off at will. WGY, WOR, WLW, WABC and fifteen or more other American stations come in finding and shifting programs on one or more short-wave bands in addition to their broadcast band. Given good tuning and skill, make it impossible to tune these stations locally, even on a high grade receiver, they will come in strong and clear on the short wave, from Schenectady to Boston and all around the corner. Around a couple of corners, perhaps, but when it comes to short wave. The old days of long-distance groping have come back in the thrill of try for Tokio.

VENEZUELAN-MEXICAN AT NEW HIGH RECORD

Venezuelan-Mexican Oil shares have been stimulated to establish a new record high at 33. Additional impetus to buying was given with announcement that Union Oil has plans to commence drilling in Mexico, about 100 miles south of Tampico. The Union holdings in this section adjoin those of the Venezuelan-Mexican Oil. There has been considerable talk of a possible merger or consummation of a drilling contract between the two companies. General Storage for the Venezuelan-Mexican Co. is now in Mexico. Engineers recently reported on the company's Mexican properties have indicated the axis of a large anticlinal structure three miles long. Las Tortillas. The company has about 75,000 acres favorably located on this structure and Salado Arch are owned by Gulf, Humble and Marland companies. Examination of the company's Chapeno property verified presence of gypsum and sulphur very close to the surface. These superficial features often accompany salt domes in this gulf coast region.

JANET GAYNOR IS LOVABLE IN 'ANGEL' FILM

By LEO GAFFNEY

Taking an old London stage hit, the youthful directorial genius, Frank Borzage, has melted it down in long, leisurely fashion, added a healthy dash of workable movie batter, added a great deal of sugar, poured into the mould of sentiment, and served in the form of "Street Angel." As the film now unfolds on the Olympia and Fenway screens it becomes apparent that Fox Films and Mr. Borzage are out to duplicate the success of "Seventh Heaven." Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are again in evidence, as also the chief stock in trade of these two personable kids, viz., a ton of hard luck and what is known as a "great love."

Janet Gaynor

In a day when faultless photographic distinguishes even the silliest movie, it is an achievement to fabricate scenes like those that exhibit the vision in "Street Angel."

NAPLES REPRODUCED

It is said that Borzage chose his locale, the Neapolitan waterfront, with an eye to this effect. He has reproduced Naples, not only in the glowing spirit of "O Sole Mio," and the flowery paintings, but also in all its squalid, garlicky glory.

If Frank Borzage shows the skill of his hand on the side of art, he also betrays his acumen for the box office; for every inch of his photoplay shows him going right after the crowd with a story of mother-love, sloppy-sweet hokum, but eloquently turned out.

There is the tortured little heroine, as pure of soul as leaf lard in the advertisements, arrested (also of course) for loitering on the streets. There is a vagabond artist with leggy velveteen pants, Jet black curls and with genius shown in his eyes. Meeting the little girl. Inspiration! At last a model for his masterpiece! Really, you ought to know the rest.

BORZAGE'S WORK CLEVER

The fussy ones, those who know all about such things as "technique," symbolism, essence of drama and associated sophistries, won't need to read the sentiment. They will have plenty to do to keep occupied with Borzage's high quality and the magnificent work of Ellis Janis. As sure as shootin', Janet Gaynor, if she chooses, may become another "America's Sweetheart." Actors Charles Farrell, once just a plodding Cape Codder, now enjoys the vexations of fan mail in drey loads and large amounts of income tax.

As for Borzage, quietly and inobtrusively working for it all, he may console himself with the satisfaction that his name reposes among the 10 leading directors of the world's largest industry in the world.

2 TRAINS JUMP TRACK; 9 DEAD

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP)—Nine persons were killed and 11 seriously injured in a double derailment of Illinois Central railroad passenger trains about one mile north of Kankakee, Ill., early today. A statement issued at the offices of the railroad here said:

"Train No. 16, the Chicago, Memphis, north-bound, Memphis to St. Louis, struck a cluster of piles 24 inches in diameter by 20 feet in length. The piles struck the south track just as the No. 3, the Chicago to New Orleans Limited, passed.

"The engine and 10 cars of No. 3 were derailed and struck the engine of No. 16. Engineer Quincy, who was killed. Twelve on both trains were seriously injured.

"Nine passengers on train No. 3 were killed. Twelve on both trains were seriously injured.

The dead include L. A. Brennan, 40, Matteon, Ill., transfer expressman; Frank Smith, 40, and Joseph Zelenck, both of West Orange, N. J., and five negroes. Other bodies were believed to be in the wreckage.

FINE AND JAIL TERM FOR VIOLATOR OF AUTO LAWS

Five violations of automobile laws resulted in a two months' jail sentence and fines totaling $125 for Edmund G. Dunne of Quincy, who appeared in Dorchester District Court today. Judge Brown sentenced him to two months for operating under the influence, fined him $100 for reckless driving, $10 each for failure to display a valid registration and $5 for being drunk. He appealed each sentence.

CANADIAN LINER ASHORE IN LAKE SUPERIOR

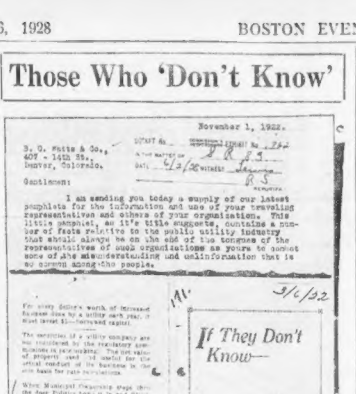
Duluth, Minn., Aug. 6 (AP)—The Canadian passenger steamer Huronic was aground on Isle Royale, on the north shore of Lake Superior, today. Wireless received by the Radio Corporation of America indicated that the passengers and crew were not in danger, but that the ship was hard on the rocks.

The tug Champlin was on its way from Port Arthur to assist the vessel. The Coast Guard cutter Crawford also left Two Harbors, Minn., for the scene.

FIGHT MANAGER'S WIFE ROBBED OF 19,000 JEWELS

Long Beach, N. Y., Aug. 6 (INS)—Mrs. Frances Reisler, wife of John Reisler, prize-fight manager known as "John the Barber," was robbed of $19,000 worth of jewelry in her room in the Hotel Winkler here by two masked men, she told police today. She said the bandits bound and gagged her and tied her to the bed.

Those Who 'Don't Know'



November 1, 1922.

R. O. Fritz & Co.,
407 - 1422 St.,
Denver, Colorado.

Gentlemen:

I am sending you today a supply of our latest pamphlets for the information and use of your traveling representatives and others of your organization. This little pamphlet, as it's title suggests, contains a number of facts relative to the public utility industry that should always be on the end of the tongues of the representatives of such organizations as yours to correct some of the misunderstanding and information that is so current among the people.

If They Don't Know—

Tell 'em—

THOSE traveling salesmen who lent themselves to the propaganda of the power interests in a number of States "told 'em" in smoking cars, hotel lobbies and small town newspaper offices. The propagandists coached them first. George Lewis, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico propagandist, put his instructions for combatting "the misunderstanding and malinformation that is so common among the people" into the pamphlet shown here. This strikes at municipal ownership and pictures the dire consequences of refusing a public utility "a fair rate." Part of a letter Lewis sent out in an attempt to make "traveling evangelists" of a Denver firm's salesmen is shown above. The letter and pamphlet are exhibits in the Trade Commission's inquiry.

McLAGLEN IN AN IRISH FILM AT THE BOSTON

Magnificent settings, excellent direction, fine photography and splendid acting mark the picture to make "It a gnana's Paradise," a film at the Keith-Albee-Boston, dedicated as a John Ford, one of the most interesting photoplays received in quarters for the past twelve months.

This story, written by Donn Byrne, has been transported by Marion Orth from an adaptation by Philip Klein and gives Victor McLaglen an ample evidence of its excellent acting. It is Irish from beginning to end and boasts one of the finest scenes.

Victor McLaglen

June Collyer, who distinguished herself in "Four Sons," is the leading feminine role opposite Barry Kent, while Victor McLaglen has the leading role as Colleen Hogan. Earle Foxe and Hobart Bosworth also have prominent parts.

Ford has his own amusing aptitude for revealing character in celluloid, has given the screen version of "Hangman's House." His actors live, move and have their being in the old world home known as the home of "Jimmy the Hangman."

Ford does not tell us of this house and its occupants and visitors. He takes us to Ireland and shows to the public unerringly. We do not get the impression of puppets moving across the sets. Ours is a first-hand version of the events and the current things in dramatic surroundings.

On stage at the Boston, the vaudeville is headed by the Meistersingers, popular aggregation of male singers in a program of favorites, old and new.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR HAROLD J. FLOOD

A requiem high mass was held at St. Augustine's Church, South Boston, today, for Harold J. Flood, 26, who died at the Boston City Hospital, following an operation. He was a member of Post 6 Marquette Council, Knights of Columbus and a church usher. A delegation of the Knights of Columbus formed the escort, at which Rev. Joseph Corrigan was celebrant, Thomas F. Swift, chaplain, and Rev. William J. Kenney, subdeacon. Interment was at New Calvary Cemetery, Mattapan.

EAST BOSTON MEN ARE FINED IN LIQUOR CASE

Three East Boston men in East Boston Court today pleaded guilty to bringing liquor into World War Memorial Park and paid fines of $10 each. They were Adolph Mosilo, Breen st.; Frank De Pasquale, Maverick st., and Domenico Narcisco, Everett st. According to the police, during the heat of Saturday the two brought 24 quarts of wine to the park, to be used in washing down sandwiches.

'LINGERIE' TOPS BILLS AT TWIN HOUSES

Heading the bill at the Modern and Beacon this week is the Tiffany-Stahl production "Lingerie" featuring Alice White.

Supporting Miss White in the title role is Malcolm McGregor and Alice White, who specializes in ingenues of a certain age, finding that his wife is unfaithful to him for his money, enlists for immediate service in France. During a short furlough from the front he discovers true romance in the person of a little French Girl, "Lingerie." When she wounds send him home a hospital case effects his misanthropy is aggravated by the fact that his wife, accepted with a sweetheart, treats him quite impersonally.

Alice White

Into this situation steps the little "Lingerie" and the fun followed. Jimmy Gleason has followed him home from France.

Miss White in the title role is well cast. Mildred Harris portrays the indifferent wife. McGregor handles his role in the sure touch of the accomplished actor. Comedy relief is furnished by the antics of Jimmy Gleason as Victor Potel, Armand Kalis and Marcella Corday are likewise featured in the picture.

"If I Were Single" is offered as the companion picture with May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel co-featured.

BREMEN FLIERS' PLANE IS LANDED IN QUEBEC

Quebec, Aug. 6 (AP)—The monoplane Bremen in which Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Fitzmaurice and Capt. Koehl made the first westward crossing of the Atlantic by air, has been brought here by steamer from Greenly Island, where the transatlantic flyers landed. It will be reassembled and placed on display at Lindbergh Field, San Diego. The Bremen later will be shipped to Germany.

VARIOUS LAWS FOR AUTOISTS MANDATORY

By FRANK A. GOODWIN

Highway Safety Editor, Boston Evening American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

In the year 1927 there were 21,252 licenses and registrations suspended or revoked and a great many operators labored under the impression that the power in this respect was their own initiative, but this is far from the truth. More than half of these cases were taken away from them by the mandatory law.

Frank A. Goodwin

On the month of July, just past, Registrar Parker took away 4487 licenses and registrations, 3,000 were taken on complaint of his inspectors, 124 on complaints of police, 2 on complaints of State police, making a total of only 1,126, while the balance, 2293, were revoked by the registrar because the law compelled him to act.

Of this 2293 there were 1979 revocations, because the owner of cars, for some reason or other, failed to keep his car insured for personal liability.

There are various offenses, known in the motor vehicle law as serious offenses, which upon conviction in court must be immediately reported to the registrar and he must immediately revoke the license. These offenses are as follows: Reckless driving, under the influence of liquor, so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered, racing, going away after an accident without giving name and address, going at another person's car, without authority and getting or aiding a person to get away from the scene of accident or impersonation.

Whenever there is a conviction for any of these cases, not only must the registrar revoke immediately, but he has no power to return the license for 60 days for all offenses, except under the influence of liquor and for this he cannot return the license until after one year. For a second offense of under the influence, cannot return until after five years.

Although this has been the law for many years, it is surprising how many operators there are who do not know. Unfortunately, persons who drive a car for a living, or use one continually in their business, would secure the latest laws and not to violate these laws, if they knew beforehand that their bread and butter would be virtually affected by a conviction.

The law is ironclad. The registrar can not go outside of it.

Now a great many operators finding themselves entirely free from the privilege of legally driving, are sorely tempted to drive illegally, and they do not realize what the penalty is for that offense. The law provides that, if a person is found driving a car during the time his license has been suspended or revoked, he must be fined not less than $100 and not more than $199 or imprisonment for ten days for a first offense and for a second offense, $200 or a year's imprisonment or both, but it is the duty of the station at the registry to take away the license from any person who is a person whose license has been suspended or revoked.

Over the law and avoid trouble.

On Nullification

Of the FOURTEENTH Amendment

From now until November the air will ring with the oratory of Congressmen demanding that the Eighteenth Amendment be enforced, and the Constitution observed.

It is worth remarking that there is a part of the Constitution which is being flagrantly and continually disobeyed, by members of Congress themselves.

We refer to the Fourteenth Amendment, which orders a reapportionment of seats in Congress after every census. There has been no reapportionment since the 1910 census.

As a result, the different States are represented in Congress not according to their present population, or according to their 1920 population, but according to their 1910 population.

If Congress had obeyed the Constitution and reapportioned seats in 1921, California would have three more seats in the House of Representatives than she now has, Michigan two more, Ohio two, and there would be one more each for Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas and Washington.

Missouri would have been the only one to lose two seats, while one seat each would have been lost by Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Vermont.

There are eight States whose representations would have been increased, if Congress had obeyed the law. There are eleven States that would have suffered a decrease. The balance of the States would not have been affected one way or another. The forces of selfishness and log-rolling have been strong enough to prevent reapportionment.

The matter of reapportionment ought not to be handled by Congressmen who have a selfish salary interest in it. Before the 1930 census, Congress should pass a law delegating to a government official such as the Secretary of Commerce the mathematical job of redistributing Congressional seats according to the new enumeration.

John Q. Tilson, Republican leader in the House, has joined the ranks of those who will attempt to get reapportionment legislation through the Congress that meets in December. It will be interesting to see if the Constitution shouters stand with him.

Beth Israel Hospital Will Ask No Other Question

UP TO THE MINUTE. A LAUNDRY CHUTE IN BETH ISRAEL HOSPITAL

You may have remarked that the new $3,000,000 Beth Israel Hospital is referred to by scribe and surgeon, even before the first patient has been admitted, as possessing one of the best equipments in the United States.

First of all, of course, this is because of the beneficence which made possible this magnificent gift to the community.

But it is worth pointing out that a NEW hospital so stately as the institution in Brookline Avenue starts on an equal footing with all the great and older hospitals of a community richly endowed with such institutions. Our hospitals for many years have been forced to keep step with tremendous strides in medicine and surgery. Beth Israel BEGINS step to step with these advances.

In Massachusetts General Hospital, because of its name so often mistaken for a State institution, Boston possesses the oldest hospital in New England and third oldest in the country. Then there are Boston City Hospital—27,000 patients in

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up for a whopping breakfast, with William MacHarg, of calf brains in brown butter and a heaping dish of applesauce, and discussed among others Edwin Balmer, his brother-in-law and collaborator, who has become a magazine editor and likes the work.

To a park with my dog and ventured to stand in the doorway of a police motor cycle garage near the 66th st. entrance to look at the rows upon rows of machines. And a uniformed gentleman, brusquely ordered me away, and I gave him a piece of my mind, of which I have little to spare.

Nor can I see why a uniform gives people the idea they may run the universe. So home, thinking up things I might have said. Worked awhile and in the evening to the St. Regis roof where the crowd was gay enough but not geared to my mood. So to bed.

THE "hoodoo" superstition is a fixation with many theatrical builders. There are several theaters on the Rialto which had every reason to be successes but are not, and the promoters are firm in their conviction they are "hoodooed." The most conspicuous example of this witch burning abracadabar was the Century, which for years wallowed in ups and downs. It is one of the most beautifully appointed in the city, and while it has had brief moments of success, it has cost many sponsoring attractions their tidy sums.

A GENTLEMAN from a midwest city whose name is Jacob Lord has a swell method of commanding unusual attention in New York hotels. He registers as Lord, Jacob. The comma is almost invisible to the naked eye, but immediately the hotel is in a flutter. Special dishes are prepared and the entire personnel is all attention at his approach.

THE pest hotel employees hate is the finger snapper. When he wants anything he snaps his fingers. It is effective, but their love for him is never anything more than platonic.

APARTMENT houses often change character almost over night. There is one in the Fifties where a writer lived. It was for years one of those sedate places with polite attendants and lights out by midnight. Then one evening he came home and found two cock-eyed chorus girl having a good "home and mother" cry in the hall. The next morning there was a raid on a speakeasy apartment adjoining, and two days later some Chicago boys engaged in a pistol battle on the floor below. In a week a respectable apartment had become a dump.

THE sinister apartment house is reflected by its hallboy, usually a sullen and suspicious person who is often in league with criminals. The police have a long list of ex-convicts who seek such posts.

THERE is a lady, incidentally, who specializes in naming new apartment houses. She eliminates possibility of repetition, having a complete list of every building name in town. She is responsible for the la-de-da idea of calling buildings merely by street numbers. Her charge is $50 a name.

FIFTY-SEVENTH st. has become New York's Rue de la Paix. Since the thoroughfare was widened it ripples with smart perfume, jewelry and other glittering specialty shops, aside from its magnificent dressmaking establishments. Its doors are adored by the gaudiest of uniformed flunkies, and curbs are lined with the finest motor cars. It is desolated until the shopping begins at 10 o'clock, but from there on until 5 in the evening it is one of New York's liveliest shopping centers.

"ALL," sips a telegram from Phoenix, Ariz., signed No Signature, "New York columnists are dubs and I send my contempt, pity, venom and worst wishes. Is there anything else I can send you?"

Nothing unless you could send a good duck-pond to jump off.

PIANO IS HEART OF AMERICAN HOME

By DR. FRANK CRANE

If you were limited to one book you might want the dictionary. Some people would want the Bible. If you were limited to one piece of furniture in the house your choice should be the piano.

The piano is easily the most important instrument in the world.

It is the greatest common denominator of all musical instruments.

Most music that is written for an orchestra or a banjo, a saxophone or the human voice is reducible to a piano score, and usually is first composed on the piano.

There is no doubt about music being the most cultural of studies. It connotes rhythm and harmony, two things that are essential in all departments of human activity. Rhythm is necessary even in the motion pictures, and you must have a sense of harmony if you are going to be an orator, a painter or a sculptor.

The piano is the best door to the knowledge of music. Almost everybody enters into the field of music by that door.

The piano is the heart of the home. About it naturally groups all the family. A silent house is essentially a desolate one.

The piano is the life of every social gathering.

If anyone can play the piano, even manage so-so with accompaniments, a group gathers around him and the house is enlivened by the voices of the young, or partners are chosen for dancing.

Almost every child can learn music if he is taught young enough. Modern methods of instruction are so simple that even the dullest can understand.

It is a deprivation for any child not to know the piano. It is the best form of self-expression. As Thomas Moore's Anacreontic runs:

"Music! Oh, how faint, how weak,
Language fades before thy spell!
Oh, why should passion ever speak,
When thou canst breathe her soul so well?"

Our moments of greatest delight, perhaps, are our moments of self-expression. Nothing is better suited to fully set forth our phases of emotion than the piano.

No substitute will do. It is not enough to play the harp or the violin without a basic acquaintance with the piano.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IF YOU know cow country you've seen the cattle coming down to the salt lick.

Over the hills they come, sagging along in single file, moving slowly beneath that vast, sun-bleached sky, over the sparse, scorched grass, but never for a moment forgetting the thing they're after.

THEY'RE AFTER SALT.

That grass, for all its scorched dryness, is succulent. Those hills, in spite of their grim immensity, afford friendly bedding. And the winds are kind and the trickle of water in the creek is enough for the most exacting cow. But however soft the bed or green the grass or sweet the water, cows need salt. So somewhere in the hills their owner dumps a great salt chunk and when need drives the herd they come sagging over the mesas and the plains to lay their tongues against its saving bitterness.

Men are like that, too. The bodies of men need salt.

Men have given hope and honor to get salt for their bodies. Men have traded jewels and fought wars because of that tingling madness in their flesh. They might have had other food in abundance. Sweet, soft food, juicy meat, spicy savories, but without salt all that food lost its savor.

MEN'S SPIRITS NEED SALT, TOO.

A ROUGH CHUNK OF EXPERIENCE TO WHICH THEY MUST RETURN FROM TIME TO TIME.

Something primitive, compelling, that will cut through the taste of soft, fat, spicy living.

A SALT LICK—

Sorrow is a salt lick—
Hardship is a salt lick—
Humiliation is a salt lick—
Competition and criticism are salt licks—

So do not try to eliminate these things from your life. Do not try to avoid them. Face them, rather, and be glad for them. Go out and seek them if they do not fall naturally in your lot.

If you have not tasted sorrow, go out and help bear the sorrow of others.

If you have no hardship, accumulate some.

If you have never been humiliated, take a good look at yourself and set that way.

If you have no competition or criticism, court them.

LIFE WITHOUT SALT LOSES ITS SAVOR.

BEWARE OF A LIFE THAT HASN'T A SALT LICK CACHED SOMEWHERE IN ITS HILLS. THAT LIFE IS DOOMED. IT WILL DIE OF ITS OWN SOFTNESS AND SWEETNESS.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

There are not unfrequently substantial reasons underneath for customs that appear to us absurd. —Bronte.

The expectations of life depend upon diligence; and the mechanic that would perfect his work must first sharpen his tools.—Confucius.

And when we think we lead we most are led. —Byron.

A fellow-feeling makes one wondrous kind. —Garrick.

Employment, which Galen calls "nature's physician," is so essential to human happiness that indolence is justly considered as the mother of misery. —Burton.

A gentleman has ease without familiarity, is respectful without meanness, genteel without affectation, insinuating without seeming art. —Chesterfield.

The more any one speaks of himself, the less he likes to hear another talked of. —Lavater.

Friendship is the only thing in the world concerning the usefulness of which all mankind are agreed. —Cicero.

What is there of good in real evils—they deliver us while they last from the petty despotism of all that were imaginary. —Colton.

The first bond of society is marriage; the next, our children; then the whole family and all things in common. —Cicero.

Our Latin Friends

Two Thousand Million Business With South America

Most important news for this country, although you hear little about it, deals with our foreign business. The Seaboard National Bank reminds you that this country sells $1,000,000,000 annually to Latin Americans, against only $330,000,000 before the war. We sell to our southern friends more goods than they buy from England, Germany and France combined.

Also we are helping South Americans to finance themselves, which we SHOULD do.

Before the war we had $100,000,000 invested in South America. Now we have nearly two thousand millions invested there.

Incidentally our Monroe Doctrine saves our friends billions a year by making costly defense against Europe unnecessary.

CAN We Be of Service?

a single year!—the Peter Bent Brigham, the Robert Breck Brigham, the Carney, the New England Peaconess, Vincent Memorial, Boston Home for Incurables and so many more that only the City Directory can name them all.

Guardians of life and health, they stand for Mercy, every one.

Beth Israel, requiring no other passport than the applicant's need of its services, under Superintendent Charles F. Wilinsky, M. D., takes a distinguished position in illustrious company.
